

Courtesy photo

Spencer Hatch, volunteer firefighter, greets Health Fair participants.

Photo by Tiffany Stuart

Health Fair

May 16, 2013

Siletz Community Health Clinic

Trish Carey, Jordan Hoover and Robert Bowers (back row), and Ashley Bowers, Chvn-ne Holmes, Jazmyn Bowers, Loren Holmes, and Tyee Scott (front row) view the Break the Chain Truck. BTC uses the truck to reach those who have been affected by bullying, domestic violence, child abuse, elder abuse, suicide, verbal abuse and addictions.

Photos by Tiffany Stuart

Tim Stuart, Marlita Curiel and Jacob Reid (above) try out Pilates with instructor Alissa Lane.

Stuart Whitehead (below) talks with Rodney Tryon Jr. and Jordan Glickert while they choose healthy snacks.

Courtesy photo

Health fair participants could spin the wheel (below right) to learn about tobacco with Patti McKinney, Tobacco Prevention and Education Program coordinator for the Tribe.

Photo by Tiffany Stuart

Frank Aspria puts his raffle tickets in some of the 25 different prize bags. Attendees received a raffle ticket for each booth visited. Prizes included a Vivitar photo/video camera, stereo speaker system for MP3 players, iPhone, iPad, Kindle Fire, Break the Chain T-shirt and gift certificates to Local Ocean Seafoods, Little Chief Restaurant, Bridie's Irish Faire, Agate Beach Inn-Starfish Grill, Nye Cottage Beads, Mo's Restaurant, Flashbacks Fountain & Grill, Oceanic Arts, and Ocean Bleu @ Gino's Fish Market & Cafe.

