

Mountain Huckleberry Picking

Mountain Huckleberries

Mountain Huckleberries are a favorite sweet treat of our ancestors. This variety of huckleberry only grows in high elevations and is sweeter than the varieties that grow on the coast and in the valley. Join us and taste the difference!

Our potential gathering dates depending on COVID restrictions, weather, and fire danger

Saturdays
August 21 & 28th

Date: 3/18/2019

Confederated Tribes of Siletz Indians is partnered in several grants throughout western and southern Oregon

The Siletz Tribe has partnered with numerous groups doing work in watersheds throughout western Oregon in 2021. These efforts are focused to increase member access to resources and support the work of restoring fish and lamprey habitat as well as important native plants that need to be preserved and enhanced for wildlife habitat. Currently staff are working closely with Curry County watershed partners to review recent studies conducted and published within Floras Creek/New River, Sixes, Elk, Euchre, Lower Rogue, Hunter, Pistol, Chetco, and Winchuck watersheds. This work will result in further enhancement work toward Salmonid species of focus: Winter Steelhead, Coho, Spring and Fall Chinook, Pacific Lamprey, and Coastal Cutthroat.
