

Jefferson Orchestra going for 'Baroque'

A program of sacred and secular music by three giants of the Baroque will be presented when Jefferson Baroque Orchestra (JBO) embarks upon its ninth season on Saturday, Oct. 19.

The program, beginning at 8 p.m., will feature works by Bach, Telemann and Vivaldi. It will be given at Newman United Methodist Church, Sixth and B streets in Grants Pass.

The concert will be directed by Margret Gries, a Baroque violinist and harpsichordist from Ellensburg, Wash.

Tickets will be available a the door, and advance tickets are available at the Book Exchange in Western Plaza in Cave Junction.

The program will include Telemann's concertos for flute, oboe d'amore and viola d'amore; recorder and bassoon; and trumpet and two oboes. Also Vivaldi's G minor cello concerto, and Bach's Cantata No. 26, "Ach wie flüchtig, ach wie nichtig." Several soloists will perform.

Winter concert performances are set for Nov. 30 in Grants Pass, and Dec. 1 in Ashland.

JBO's winter concert will include one of Handel's "Grand Concertos," and Christmas portion of "Messiah" under the direction of Pat O'Scannell, the Oregon Shakespeare Festival's Green Show music director.

Internationally acclaimed baroque violinist Michael Sand will return to direct JBO's spring concert. It will be a program of London theater music from Henry Purcell to Bach, including selections from the "Beggars' Opera."

For JBO 2002-03 season information, go to jeffersonbaroque.org, or telephone Jim Rich at (541) 592-2681.
