U.S. lumber demand rising next year, predicts WWPA

Continued strength in new home construction, repair and remodeling likely will vault U.S. lumber demand to record levels during 2003, based on Western Wood Products Association's (WWPA) forecast.

The Portland-based trade association said that U.S. lumber consumption should reach an all-time high of 54.7 billion board feet during 2003, eclipsing the previous mark of 54.3 bbf set in 1999. Demand during 2002 is anticipated to match the 54.3 bbf mark.

Spurred by low interest rates and strong refinancing activity, the repair and remodeling segment will account for most of the lumber demand increases next year. Lumber usage in repair and remodeling is anticipated to increase nearly 3 percent to 17.3 bbf. Non-residential construction, such as schools and churches, will rise 2.6 percent to 7.2 bbf. New home starts -- the largest lumber-use segment -are predicted to dip slightly to 1.6 million units in '03 from 1.65 million units during 2002. New home construction will consume 21.2 bbf next year, said WWPA.

"Low interest rates have helped the U.S. housing and remodeling markets stay healthy and expand demand for lumber products," said Michael O'Halloran, WWPA president. "That's good news for Western lumber mills."

Despite the growing lumber demand, overall U.S. lumber production is anticipated to remain stable at 35 bbf. Western production will be down less than 1 percent during 2003 at 16.58 bbf, and Southern production will be down slightly a 16.47 bbf, WWPA said.

It's anticipated that lumber imports will rise more than 500 million board feet next year. WWPA predicts that Canadian shipments will rise 1.6 percent to 18.7 bbf. Non-Canadian imports may be up 15.3 percent to 2 bbf, led by European lumber volumes that will top 1 bbf for the first time, said WWPA.

The association represents lumber manufacturers in the 12 Western states and Alaska. WWPA compiles lumber industry statistics and provides business information services to mills. It also delivers quality standards and technical support services to the industry.

Keep it in the valley.

Asante hosts RUS national video conference

Asante Health System had the honor last month of hosting a national videoconference presentation on behalf of the Rural Utilities Services (RUS), a division of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Eleven sites from around the country came together through the power of cuttingedge telecommunications technology to announce the local recipient of a $500,000 grant to Rogue Community College from RUS.

It awards millions of dollars in grants each year to help rural non-profit associations, public bodies, and for-profit utilities expand and keep their technologies up-to-date. Asante Health System is a former recipient of two RUS grants.

In 2000 and 2001, Asante received more than $830,000 to establish the Josephine County Regional Medical

MONDAY-FRIDAY MORNING/AFTERNOON

Network, a broadband network built in conjunction with the new Three Rivers Community Hospital (TRCH) in Grants Pass.

The network connects more than 100 Josephine County independent physicians, four rural medical clinics (in Cave Junction and Wolf Creek), TRCH and Rogue Valley Medical Center in Medford, and Oregon Health Services University in Portland.
