

'Concert Review' By Ross Welcome

Community is a word that is often times misconstrued.

This is because it has two meanings: The traditional dictionary meaning and the real meaning. The dictionary meaning lends itself to the scientific explanatory ideal, whereas the true meaning is actually unidentifiably ambiguous.

Yet when you attend a choir and band concert at a school, and see the faces and hear the efforts of dedicated students, you can sense, feel, and differentiate the textbook definition from the real definition of community.

Music is the key, the chemical that separates the catalyst from the result.

Thursday, May 8, at Illinois Valley High School was definitely an example of the phenomenon I speak of.

T. Lund, IVHS band director, and IVHS students, facing unprecedented odds, pulled off one of the most heart wrenching, enlightening and entertaining community efforts I have witnessed as a third generation valley resident. Budget cuts, recent tragedies and a serious, potentially life-threatening illness plaguing Lund, did not prevent the show from going on.

The evening opened with the concert choir. They warmed up with a renaissance canon, and then led the audience in the singing of the Star Spangled Banner. Then they performed "Sing for Joy" by Handel. They performed "Turn Around" and "Rock-n-Roll Hall of Fame," arranged by Jerry Nowack, which was one of the favorites of the audience. "One Moment in Time," a song originally sung by Whitney Houston, was an emotional experience for many. The choir finished its part with "Lean on Me".

Next was the concert band, and let me tell you, the IVHS band never sounded so good; even when I attended this high school as a music student. There was some kind of inspiring force causing the music to just overwhelm the audience with a kind of paradoxical joyful melancholy.

I know I felt it, and as I looked around, everyone else seemed to be in a similar trance. The band performed several challenging and collegic sounding tunes, with marches as an apparent theme.

Among the pieces were "The Florentiner," Julius Fucik, "March of the Irish Guard," "Morning Song," and "El Capitan" by John Phillip Sousa. "Avatara" composed by Mike Leckrone, the director of bands at the University of Wisconsin, was a pseudo symphonic classical march piece, which was the highlight of the evening for the band's segment.

Lund, recently won the "Mr. Holland's Opus Award" for band directors. One understands why when witnessing the positive influence this awesome music teacher has on his students. My hat's off to Lund, who put this concert together while combating budget cuts, bureaucratic red tape, a debilitating treatment for a very serious illness and psychologically depressed students and parents due to the recent loss of a local music student in a car accident. This is the true meaning of community.

I feel very fortunate and honored to have been a member of the audience on this occasion, which proved how important and valuable a music program, led by a capable instructor, can be in all aspects of education.
