

Church News

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church

This past Sunday was Christ the King Sunday, the last of the church year. Christ is our King, but not in a worldly sense.

Christ, our King, gave the ultimate sacrifice for us — his life. His kingdom has nothing to do with power or riches, rather it is about saving our souls.

Church activities: Wednesday, Nov. 26, 6 p.m., Thanksgiving soup and worship service at the Methodist Church; Sunday, Nov. 30, 9 a.m., worship, 10:15 a.m., Sunday school.

St. Patrick of the Forest Catholic Church

The season of Advent begins on Nov. 30 and our Sunday celebration will include the blessing of the Advent Wreath and lighting the first purple candle.

The Advent season is a time of waiting.

As children, we waited anxiously to see if Santa would bring the special gift we wanted.

As Christian adults, our focus changes and we wait in joyful hope for the coming of our Savior, Jesus Christ. Of course, there will be shopping and parties, but the real reason for this glorious season is the birth of Jesus and the peace He offers us.

Questions and Answers by Christina Snell Executive Director at Lovejoy Hospice

In order to help you become better informed about hospice services, Lovejoy Hospice is publishing this question and answer column every month.

Look for us on the fourth Wednesday of every month in 'Illinois Valley News.' If you have questions you would like answered in this column, phone or Email us at the numbers below.

Q: My aunt has Alzheimer's disease and I cannot care for her any longer. Can you suggest where I might put her?

A: The answer depends on at what stage in the disease is your aunt. There are adult foster care homes and nursing homes that understand the special care needs for those with Alzheimer's disease. They can provide for safety of the person that wanders or is up during the night. These care needs are a 24-hour responsibility for the staff to cover. You have experienced the impossibility for one person to handle this care alone. As her disease progresses, you will find that you can focus on helping the facility to preserve her dignity.

The day-to-day care needs many times drain the family member and deprive them of the opportunity to just be "family". When this happens, the role of advocate then goes to a stranger who doesn't know the little things that make real quality of life for the person.

Chamber prepares for holiday events

Yuletide activities were among items discussed by Illinois Valley Chamber of Commerce directors during their meeting on Thursday, Nov. 20 in Wild River Brewing & Pizza Co. in Cave Junction.

An entry deadline of Dec. 20 was set for annual indoor and outdoor decoration contest for business members of the chamber. Entries will be judged by President Terri Smith of Northwest Hairlines and Director Martin San of Cave Junction Lions Club. Winners will receive the traveling trophy to display for the coming year. An entry form is in this issue.

Director Vicki Gill, of SOFCU, showed the four holiday gift baskets she prepared. Each contains a wide range of goodies, and are displayed in each of the valley's four banks -- Klamath First, SOFCU, Home Valley and Evergreen Federal -- where raffle tickets are available.

Chamber directors and others will meet on Saturday, Nov. 29 to install holiday decorations on utility poles in Downtown Cave Junction and other locations in the valley. In addition, workers plan to replace the lights on the Community Christmas Tree on the lot between Junction Inn and Pizza Pit. Marty Hertler and Jim Valentine, who have cherry-picking equipment, likely will assist, it was indicated.

Vice President Ted Crocker, of Ted Crocker LTC, noted that the light strings are old and worn. The possibility of getting surplus strings from Grants Pass Chamber of Commerce was posed. Directors agreed that the city of Cave Junction should be approached next year during budget meetings to seek some funding.

Crocker reminded members that the annual Christmas Parade will be held in Downtown Cave Junction on Saturday, Dec. 6, with an alternate date of Dec. 13 if there is rain. The line-up will be at Evergreen Elementary School, and Crocker said that help will be needed there to get the parade under way. Depending on North Pole conditions, the chamber will have Santa Claus in the procession. Lee Eschen, a good friend of Santa's, is checking on availability.

In other matters:

*The board welcomed new member, Clear Spaces Gallery, owned by Pam Cooper in Downtown Cave Junction.

*Heard from Dulcie Moore, chamber office manager, that the I.V. Visitor Center recorded 1,258 visitors during October, an increase of 180 from the same month a year ago.

*Gratefully accepted the donation of computer equipment for the chamber office from Bertha Miller of Wild River Brewing & Pizza Co.

Director Vicki Gill with the four gift baskets she prepared that are displayed in the valley's four banks, where raffle tickets are available. The drawing will be held Dec. 17; and winners need not be present to win.

*Were told by Crocker that the names of seven persons will be on the ballot to fill five board vacancies. Ballots will be mailed to members, and must be returned by Dec. 12.

*Set its next meeting at Wild River on Dec. 17; and agreed that beginning in January the board will meet at noon on third Tuesdays at Wild River.

Illinois Valley Chamber of Commerce says,

'Thanks!'

to its donors, workers and buyers, who made the annual auction and mixer at Wild River Brewing & Pizza Co. in Cave Junction a great success!

Jim Frick of Century 21 Harris & Taylor again was our wonderful auctioneer. Anna Swett and Annie Piniros again did an outstanding job at the clerking table. Auction chairman was Vicki Gill of SOFCU aided by Dulcie Moore, chamber office manager Wild River Brewing & Pizza Co. and Foris Vineyards did a terrific job with beer- and wine-tasting.

We also heartily thank our donors (and if we overlooked any of you, we are truly sorry). Let us know and we'll make it up to you:
