Ten Minutes with...

G-Dub
Proprietor - G-Dub's Fix It Shop

How long have you lived in the Illinois Valley?
About six years.

And you moved from...?

Southern California...a little town called Tehachapi, up in the mountains. But I'd been in the general L.A. area before that.

What brought you to the Illinois Valley?

The cost of living. I got on the Internet, looking for the cheapest place in the country to live. Southern Oregon was the only place above what I call "The Sweat Belt;" places like Louisiana, Mississippi, up-state Florida.

What do you like best about I.V.?

The people. I like being able to go into the supermarket and have a 20 minute conversation about current events or whatever.

You don't get judged by your cover out here. You can be as loose or conservative as you choose.

I've lived in a lot of places that had a lot more money to do community stuff, but I've never lived in a place that was so community spirited.

How did you develop your facility as a "fix-it" man?

It's always just been really easy for me to fix stuff. When I was younger if I wanted something it just seemed easier to get something broken and see if I could fix it than to get the money out of mom and dad.

If I had an income where I didn't have to work I'd probably still be doing this for nothing. I enjoy finding the problem.

What's the most interesting repair you've come across?

I've worked on just about everything. There's some really bizarre stuff...I mean some very personal items that have been brought to me to repair... (laughs) but I won't go any deeper into that.

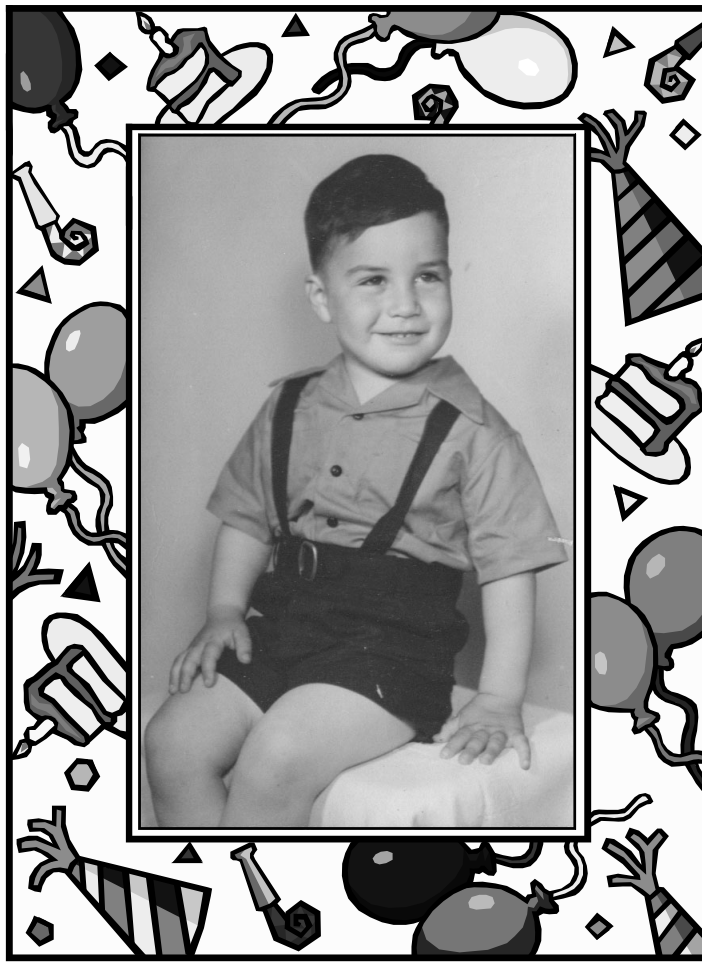

I think it's fun to repair heirloom items, things that have no value to anyone except that it was their mom's toaster from the '50s or '60s. I fix something like that and they're just...the look on their face is pretty amazing. It's worth more than I could ever charge.

What's your favorite flavor of ice cream?

Oh, probably Chunky Monkey, but I don't eat ice cream anymore.
