

CITY OF CAVE JUNCTION GROWTH - Work is proceeding in the area of Hanby Lane off N. Old Stage Road on two housing subdivisions. In addition, there are plans for an assisted-living facility, also on Hanby Lane. The Cave Junction City Council and staff have been working with developers and others on plans, zone changes, lot-line revisions and annexation. Growth in the northern portion of the city was the topic of a page 1 story in 'Illinois Valley News' on May 5. (Photo by Shane Welsh)

Wyden helps lead battle for healthy forest money

U.S. Sen. Ron Wyden (D-Ore.) has won approval of a budget amendment that will "truly and fully" fund the Healthy Forests Restoration Act (HFRA), legislation that Wyden and U.S. Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-Calif.) shepherded to a bipartisan Senate compromise and into law last year.

to get the Healthy Forests Restoration Act signed into law, Congress and the president owe it to communities to stop the shell games and fully fund this important legislation," said Wyden.

The measure was co-sponsored by Feinstein and U.S. Sens. Tom Daschle (D-S.D.), Jeff Bingaman (D-N.M.), Byron Dorgan (D-N.D.) and Tim Johnson (D-S.D.).

In a letter to the president earlier this year, Wyden, Feinstein, Johnson and U.S. Sen. Patty Murray (D-Wash.) requested that the president's fiscal year 2005 budget include the full $760 million authorized for hazardous fuels reduction under HFRA.

It increases the budget authority for hazardous fuels projects and HFRA by $343 million to reach the $760 million authorization of Title I in HFRA.

They noted that the figure authorized by HFRA reflects data collected by the National Association of State Foresters based on the funding level necessary to treat all at-risk federal lands.

Currently, the Bush Administration budget reduces funds from other vital forest service programs and moves those dollar amounts into HFRA without providing real new funds for the law, Wyden said.

His amendment does not represent additional spending in the budget, but is fully offset by a small across-the-board cut from Function 920, Wyden said.
