Blotter

*Reported theft on Illinois River Road was deemed a civil matter.

*Two juvenile girls were to be warned after a complaint from June Drive that they were hitting a woman's car with their hands.

Wednesday, May 19 *A man's girlfriend wouldn't leave a man's Waldo Road residence at 24 past midnight. Then she did, he said. *Michelle L. Dyer, 30, was arrested on Dick George Road under a California warrant charging perjury and fraud to obtain aid.

*Damage was estimated at $336 after two windows were broken (again) at I.V. High. *A "suspicious person" reported at Waldo and Rockydale roads wasn't located. *Angela M. Stiles, 19, was cited on a charge of careless driving at the top of Hay's Hill.

*Four transients on a church parking lot concerned a woman, but she was going to ask them to leave and seek help if necessary. *It was reported that a "Stop" sign had been down for several days at Takilma and Dick George roads.

*At the top of Hay's Hill a man thought that vehicle backfire noises were gunshots, and he was afraid until it was determined what they were.

*After two IVHS bicyclists reported that someone tried to run them off the road and threatened them with a baseball bat, the mother of the suspect was to have him contact a deputy asap.

*Harassment was complained about on Kerby Avenue at 9:56 a.m. *Some nut broke into a place in the 28000 block of Redwood Hwy., broke a coffee pot, cooked some food, and then took items including a gallon of mustard, a 5-pound block of cheese and toilet paper.

*At the I.V. Substation a man spoke to a deputy about another man stalking him in a continuing problem, and was advised.

*In connection with reported assault on Addison Lane, people were contacted and warned about their conduct, including telephonic harassment.

*A requested welfare check on Holland Loop determined that a woman was OK, and actually was at a care center elsewhere.

*Following reported domestic violence in the 7000 block of Rockydale Road a man was "trespassed."

*On Pine Tree Way a grandmother was worried she couldn't find her grandson, 10, at 8:45 p.m.; saying he had been missing since 6 p.m. But he was found and was OK.

*On Rockydale Road, a driver wasn't impaired; she was daydreaming.

*A report on menacing and second-degree criminal mischief was pending after a report from McMullen Creek Road that a brother was chasing his brother with a crowbar and broke a car window.

Thursday, May 20 *"Help me, help me!" was being yelled by a man in the 5000 block of Caves Hwy. at 1:03 a.m. Turned out he didn't feel good and was trying to get into a friend's house. *Upon checking a car with a sleeping woman in it at 8:12 a.m. on Redwood Hwy. in Selma, a deputy found that she (her car) had run out of gas, and she was awaiting her husband.

*A white "fleshy" substance on a front porch on Junction Avenue turned out to be something the cat dragged home, probably a piece of chicken.

*Because of a high-speed pursuit at 10:37 p.m. from CJ southbound, trying to catch a wanted felon, no deputy was available at 11:32 p.m. when a woman phoned another woman and said, "I think someone shot someone."

*Although children were said to be the culprits in a 911 hang-up call from W. River Street, it turned out that two adults had engaged in a "verbal."

*On Honeybee Lane a woman voluntarily underwent a mental hold.

*Theft of a red-colored boy's bicycle was logged at Evergreen Elementary.

Friday, May 21

*Bolts had been removed and a gate opened at the Kerby Landfill, a man said at 8:37 a.m. The vandals might have broken into the model airplane club, he said.

*On Takilma road, a woman complained at 9:55 a.m. that people nearby choose to rev vehicle engines in the wee hours of the morning for "45 minutes to an hour," disrupting her sleep.

*A driver was warned for failure to signal 100-feet before a turn in the 500 block of Redwood Hwy. at 10:29 a.m.

*Mark D. Patterson, 38, was cited on charges of DWISI, failure to carry proof of insurance, and expired tags; and warned for an obscured plate. His vehicle was towed, following a traffic stop at Illinois Valley "Forks" state park at 10:44 a.m.
