Forest workers, harvesters will gather at Sis-Q Camp

With the arrival of the mushroom season, the Alliance of Forest Workers and Harvesters will hold its annual get-together in Illinois Valley.

The event at Sis-Q Meadows Youth Camp, at the end of Airport Drive, will run from Friday, Nov. 5 through Sunday, Nov. 7.

The alliance is a three-state organization of forest workers and harvesters, said Susan Chapp, of Cave Junction-based Forestry Action Committee.

The gathering will provide opportunities, Chapp said, for participants to meet forest workers from other locales; and discover possible overlapping issues, and what can be done together so resolve them.

The main gathering will begin around 9 a.m. Saturday. There will be presentations and discussions on issues such as the mushroom harvest, accessing forest work, and local and national forestry topics including noxious weeds.

Also, building skills; and rules and regulations on U.S. Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management land.

"People can bring any issues they want discussed," said Chapp. "And we hope they stay for dinner and a few hours of music by 'Southern Oregon Blues Band'," she said.

For more information phone Wayne Fitzpatrick at 592-2286, or Chapp at 592-4098.
