Ethical dilemmas at end of life topic of Lovejoy panel

"Living with Grief: Ethical Dilemmas at the End of Life" is the topic for a Lovejoy Hospice program Thursday, April 21.

Hospice Foundation of America's (HFA) 12th annual National Bereavement Teleconference will focus on the topic. This free program is open to the public, and will be moderated by Cokie Roberts of ABC News.

A panel of Josephine/Jackson counties experts will provide the community perspective on the topic following the taped delay broadcast on April 21 from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Lovejoy Hospice Conference Room, 939 S.E. Eighth St., Grants Pass. Brown bag dinners, dessert and beverages will be served at no cost.

Panelists will be Diane Kosmatka, a registered nurse and clinical supervisor-Hospice, Providence Medford Medical Center; Kathleen Waud, a registered nurse, hospital supervisor, and co-chairman of the Three Rivers Community Hospital Ethics Committee; Dr. Bruce P. Murray, an internal medicine physician; and the Rev. Carol Howser, spiritual coordinator and ethics officer for Lovejoy Hospice.

The panel, said Lovejoy, will discuss topics "which have the potential to soon touch us all either professionally or personally."

The program will describe the six ethical dilemmas and issues evident at the end of life and the ways that cultural differences may influence ethical choices. End-of-life ethical decisions will be discussed as reflected in different settings such as home hospice programs, nursing homes and hospitals.

Oregon's Advance Directive law has an important and timely role in communicating those ethical choices and will be discussed.

Reaching an estimated audience of 125,000 people nationwide, the teleconference will benefit multiple communities, helping people cope with the process of decision making at the end of life.

"Lovejoy Hospice is presenting a local panel of experts who will discuss the special principles which are the basis for ethical decision making at the end of life including the crucial role of Oregon's Advance Directive Law," said Judi Hill, Lovejoy Hospice outreach coordinator.

"It is our goal to have each participant come away with new understanding when applying ethical principles."

The teleconference is produced by HFA, a non-profit organization working to educate health-care professionals and the families they serve on issues relating to illness, loss and grief. The program is co-sponsored by the Foundation for End-of-Life Care, in cooperation with the Adventist Communication Network, Alzheimer's Association, U.S. Administration on Aging, and U.S. Dept. of Veterans Affairs.

Young authors honored at Shining Stars Poetry Slam

Two young Illinois Valley poets whose works were featured at a recent poetry slam competition earned gift certificates for the Book Exchange and their efforts published in the 'Illinois Valley News.'

The event, sponsored by The Shining Stars, took place at the Blue Moon Café during the Friday, April 8 Art Walk. All contestants received participation certificates.

First place awards went to Mikhail Thomas, a senior at Illinois Valley High School; and Sarah Spring, an Evergreen Elementary fifth grader. Second-place winners were Jesh Hubbard in the high school bracket, and fifth-grader Myana Dhenin and third-grader Brelyn Dhenin tied in the elementary bracket.

A poetry slam is a competitive poetry reading in which participants are judged on the quality of their performance and work.

The Cricket Stone

The cricket stone
is a lucky stone
it is your stone it can be what you want it to be it can be blue or green or gold it can be the sea
it can be a tree or it can be your heart don't say you have a heart made out of stone say you have a cricket heart or a lucky heart because I know it's somewhere
inside of you

By MIKHAIL THOMAS

Of life love and pain
These things inside my heart
I don't know what they are
For I cannot tell them apart
They come so quick like dreams
And leave me asking why Why would I ever trust one
And know it's not a lie
I searched for any of them
To make sure I'm not lost
For looking blindly past them
May pose a severe cost
For a time I knew one of them
Could be lost with a knife
So close I came so many times
To losing my own life
I knew I couldn't do this I knew I must refrain
For doing this could bring someone Unforgiving pain
So losing life I learned it
And causing pain I knew
So knowing love completely
Was the only blank I drew
So if I had just one wish I think it would have to be Let life be lived without the pain
And have true love come to me

Imagination was given to man to compensate him for what he is not; a sense of humor to console him for what he is.

TATTERED TALE - This sign, directing visitors to Oregon Caves National Monument, continues to deteriorate. Located at the north end of Cave Junction on Redwood Hwy., the sign is one of many elements contributing to a visitor's first impression of Illinois Valley. There are no announced plans to replace the shabby sign anytime soon.
