DOUG JAMES

James, 63, who died Tuesday, Oct. 4, 2005 at Rogue Valley Medical Center in Medford, was held Saturday, Oct. 8 at Clausen’s Illinois Valley Funeral Home Chapel. Nearly 200 persons attended the memorial, which included loving remembrances by friends and family of his generosity, humility and compassion.

He was remembered as a friend to all, and a good and caring man who helped keep the valley healthy.

Mr. James was born on April 17, 1942 in Butte, Mont. He was a graduate of Phoenix High School in Jackson County, and earned a degree in pharmacology from Oregon State University at Corvallis. He came to Illinois Valley in 1987 from Medford, and had owned and operated Caves Pharmacy since then. Mr. James enjoyed fishing and photography, and he had been a community supporter in many ways through the years.

Surviving are his wife, LaDena James, of Cave Junction; two sons, Dean James, of Cave Junction, and Jeff James, of Phoenix, Ariz.; a brother, Dr. Richard James, of Medford; a sister, Dorothy Rodergetz, of Portland; and five grandchildren.

Clausen’s Illinois Valley Funeral Home handled arrangements.

Early Childhood Center groundbreaking at RCC

Years of planning and fund-raising for a new Early Childhood Center will come to fruition Saturday, Oct. 22 when the groundbreaking ceremony for the facility occurs at Rogue Community College in Grants Pass.

An early literacy conference, “It’s more than A, B, C’s,” also will be held in conjunction with the celebration, offering a wide range of free workshops for parents, teachers and caregivers of young children. Fun activities for younger children also are planned.

“All parents and children up to age 8 are invited, along with all early childhood teachers and caregivers,” said Connie Denham, RCC’s Early Childhood Education Dept. head. Events are scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. Registration and refreshments will begin at 8:30 a.m. with the groundbreaking celebration set for 9 a.m.

Keynote speaker Mary Curtis Gramley is a former associate dean in the Southern Oregon University at Ashland Education Dept. and director of the Early Childhood program. Dianna Lewis, a Head Start staff member and professional singer, will perform and lead songs with children, families and teachers.

Workshops, taught by early childhood professionals, are designed to help parents and teachers use teaching strategies such as talking, singing and playing with language, reading aloud, and storytelling. Other sessions will focus on enhancing children’s literacy through play.

Many workshops will be “hands-on with participants being able to make and take” a literacy teaching resource.

Five training hours will be awarded to child-care providers. Information and registration forms are available at learn.roguecc.edu/earlychild /literacyconference/ or by phoning 956-7303.

The center is a collaborative effort of Southern Oregon Head Start, Josephine County Early Intervention Services, and the city of Grants Pass, with RCC providing the land. RCC crews have been clearing and preparing the site.

The facility will house some of Head Start’s programs in Josephine County. The lab school will provide teaching, learning and observation opportunities for RCC students. Completion is expected in summer 2006.

Much of the $1.2 million needed to cover construction costs has been raised through grants, donations, and cookbook sales, but the project still needs financial support, said Denham.

Besides a grant from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, funding has come from a community development block grant through the city of Grants Pass, and grants from the RCC Foundation, Meyer Memorial Trust, Collins Foundation, Oregon Community Foundation, Carpenter Foundation, and others.

The story of the Pharisees plotting to entrap Jesus in speech will be read on the 29th Sunday in Ordinary Time.

Jesus knew their malice, and stymied them by replying to their question about paying a census tax to Caesar by stating, “Repay to Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God.”
