

'OLD-TIMEY COUNTRY & WESTERN' music fit the bill Thursday evening, July 20 in Jubilee Park. Dale Hopper and John Kersameyer performed at the I.V. Chamber of Commerce-sponsored event. They were joined onstage by Sharon Hopper and canine talent 'Claude,' who howled fetchingly to a rendition of 'Walkin' the Dog.' The final program in the eight-concert series will feature 'The Emmons Sisters' performing gospel/Bluegrass music Thursday, Aug. 3, beginning at 6:30 p.m. (Photo by IVN)

Drowning seems to be at the top of the bell curve during recent weeks due to the heat wave and lack of understanding by water recreationists.

Since the first week of June, 26 people have drowned in Oregon waterways, primarily in rivers. Some of the drownings involved nonmotorized watercraft, such as rafts, kayaks, and other types of inflatables.

This year, 11 people

“Gone but not forgotten,” was a phrase often used during the Vietnam War to let POWs there know that they were still remembered by their U.S. families.

Today, Deborah Crane, president and founder of Treats for Troops, has made it her company’s mission to let men and women know that they are too rememhave died in boating accidents, seven involving non-motorized boats, and all but two were not wearing life jackets.

"The water can be so inviting, especially on hot days, but caution must be used," said Ashley Massey, public affairs specialist for the Oregon State Marine Board (OSMB).

It maintains statistics on boating fatalities -- and during the last 10 years, more than a third of the fatalities involve nonmotorized watercrafts.

Many of these watercraft easily capsize and you could find yourself in cold water and in trouble, quickly," Massey said.

She offers the following tips for anyone on rivers:

- *Wear a properly fitting life jacket. Make sure that you understand how the life jacket will perform in the type of water you are in and make sure it's in good, serviceable condition.
- *Know the waterway. Rivers are dynamic in nature and change often, so scope them out before you enter. Know where there are snags, rocks, deep pools and how the current flows. A little research about a river can go a long way in preventing an accident.

*Keep a proper lookout. Because rivers are dynamic, the banks are continually changing and so is the depth. Floating down a river can be relaxing, but it's important to stay alert. Many don't realize they're in trouble until they're literally, "going through the rapids."
