

Oregon overall gains population more rapidly than its five southwestern counties

The state of Oregon has released the findings of the 2006 Oregon Population Survey.

It provides a wealth of data on income and other household characteristics, health insurance coverage, educational attainment, commuting choices, education, child-care arrangements, and Internet usage.

The telephone survey, conducted by the Northwest Research Group during summer and fall 2006, also provides information on Oregonians' perceptions, ranging from the quality of public services to their sense of community. Key findings:

In-Migration:

*The rate of people migrating to Oregon during the past five years grew from 17 percent in 2004 to 23 percent in 2006. A Benchmark increase occurred in all regions but Region 4 (Josephine, Jackson, Douglas, Curry and Coos counties), which remained the same as in 2004.

Region 4 showed 19 percent both years for Oregonians who moved to the state during the past five years.

The five-county region achieved 129 percent of the Oregon Benchmark Goal for Hispanic residents, with 516. It was 125 percent for Native Americans, 499; 112 percent for Asian/Pacific Islanders, 446; and 84 percent for African Americans, 336.

Region 1 (three north coast counties plus Columbia County) saw a 10-percentage point increase. Region 2 (Clackamas, Multnomah, Washington and Yamhill counties) experienced a 9 percent point rise.

Oregon Households:

*Median household income increased from $40,569 to $42,021 between '03 and '05. Adjusted for 1989 dollars, income decreased from $26,220 to $25,813 during that period.

*Approximately two-thirds (65 percent) of all Oregon households are owner-occupied, which is slightly lower than the U.S. average (69 percent).

*Seventy-seven percent of all Oregon households have personal computers, and 69 percent have Internet access, both approximately the same as during '04. A big increase occurred in high-speed access. During '04, 45 percent of households with Internet had high-speed access, in '06 that grew to 67 percent.

Education:

*Approximately a third of Oregon adults older than 25 report that they have a college degree or higher, about the same as in '04. The percent of Oregonians who report that they hold an associate degree or have some college training rose from 28 percent in '04 to 31 percent in '06.

Health and Well-Being:

*An estimated 15.6 percent of Oregonians (576,000) lack health insurance, compared to 17 percent in '04. Approximately 12.6 percent of those 18 and younger (116,000 children) lack health insurance, compared to 13.0 percent in '04.

*The percent of Oregonians who report suffering from a long-lasting disability increased from 13 percent in '04 to 18 percent in 2006. Approximately half of those between the ages of 75 and 84, and two-thirds of those 85 and older, report living with a disability.

Oregonians' Perceptions:

*About their state and community: Oregonians remain positive about their state. Approximately 87 percent feel somewhat or very positive about the state, a figure that is up slightly from 84 percent in '04. The post-9/11 boost in feelings of community cohesion continued through '06, with about half feeling part of the community.

During 2000, the figure was 37 percent. People who have moved to Oregon during the past five years are less likely to feel a part of their community. Oregonians rated access to health care and controlling drug use lower than in recent years.

*About government services: The percentage of Oregonians who feel very positive or somewhat positive about government services rose from 60 percent in '04 to 65 percent in '06. This is still below the high of 79 percent in 2000.

*About infrastructure: Compared to '04, a higher percentage of Oregonians think Oregon is doing a better job in maintaining highways, roads and bridges. Despite a significant increase in concern about traffic in the Portland area, the great majority of Oregonians do not view traffic as a serious or critical problem. However, controlling sprawl and developing mass transit were all rated lower than in recent years.

*About education: The percentage of Oregonians who believe the state is doing very well or somewhat well in K-12 education dropped from 64 percent in '04 to 60 percent in '06. A slow but steady decline has occurred in perceptions of how Oregon is doing in undergraduate and graduate education at public four-year colleges and universities, falling from 85 percent in 2000 to 80 percent in '06.

Community colleges remain a favorite with Oregonians, holding steady at an 88 percent overall approval rating.

*About the environment: Oregonians continue to feel that Oregon is doing a good job in preserving the state's resources and environment. Generally, environmental protection received the highest ratings from Oregonians.

Provision of parks and open spaces is the most highly rated of any service, with a 90 percent approval rating -- about the same as in '04.

Three flee cops; jump in river; one jailed

Three Grants Pass residents attempting to flee Thursday night, Feb. 15 from state and county police officers in Josephine County made the mistake of jumping into the frigid Rogue River before they surrendered, said Oregon State Police.

All three were treated for hypothermia, and the driver was lodged on several charges.

At approximately 8 p.m., OSP Senior Trooper Tanya Henderson attempted to stop a 1986 four-door Honda southbound on Interstate 5 near milepost 65 north of Grants Pass for a traffic violation. The driver initially pulled onto the freeway shoulder and stopped, but then sped southbound exiting at the Merlin exit near milepost 61, OSP said.

The driver and his two passengers attempted to elude troopers and Josephine County Sheriff's Office deputies on county roads until it stopped approximately 20 miles later at the end of Ferry Road.

The three occupants got out of the car and ran, jumping into the Rogue River. The two passengers, Kyle Thier, 23, and Christina Derenzo, 20, were quickly recovered from the river which had water temperatures near 40 degrees, OSP reported.

The driver, subsequently identified as Joseph O'Dell, 21, "got caught in the river current and was taken into the middle of the river. Water rescue personnel were notified to respond, but as O'Dell was screaming for help he fortunately drifted to an area chest deep.

"After remaining in the cold water for a period of time, he finally was able to get to the other side of the river where he reportedly collapsed on the river bank until troopers could get to him."

All three individuals were transported by American Medical Response (AMR) to Three Rivers Community Hospital in Grants Pass for treatment of hypothermia. During this time, troopers learned that the Honda displayed switched license plates and that the car had been stolen out of the Grants Pass area.

Upon release from the hospital, O'Dell was taken into custody and lodged in Josephine County Jail on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, felony attempt to elude in a vehicle, and misdemeanor attempt to elude on foot. Additional charges will be referred to the Josephine County District Attorney's Office, as well as for the two passengers, who were not arrested.

OSP troopers from Grants Pass and Central Point offices were assisted during this incident by Josephine County Sheriff's Office, AMR, and Rural/Metro Fire Dept. and its rescue response team.

Tales from the Police Blotter

(Editor's Note: Factual information for 'Blotter' is provided by official law enforcement agencies. All persons listed are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law. Charges can be amended or dismissed.)
