Church News

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church

Jesus related a parable about two sons asked by their father to work in the fields. One said yes and the other no; then each did the opposite.

The lesson could be that lip service to obedience isn’t what God looks for; or that mercy and forgiveness are more important than our own efforts to follow God’s word.

We need His grace, mercy and forgiveness to secure our place in Heaven.

Good Shepherd Singers now are meeting Thursdays at 4 p.m.

Finally back on the job after several trips of hauling furniture and boxes to Seattle for number-one son, Stephen.

He is settled in his new apartment on the sixth floor with a lovely view from his balcony of the lake and Mt. Rainier. He enjoys being close to the Seahawks Stadium.

But oh, our aching backs as we hauled books and set up bookcases. The Preventive Medicine Dept. at University of Washington asks him for additional reading, as his library has nearly 10,000 books. Bookcases line every wall.

He hopes to attend the alumni weekend at Milo Adventist Academy at Days Creek, Ore. the first weekend in October. Many of his old friends will be present.

Madrone Adventist Elementary School is filled with happy, excited children. The kindergarten still has a few openings. Phone 592-3330 and come for a tour of the campus at 4300 Holland Loop in Cave Junction.

Last Saturday the school staff had Outdoor Church on their spacious playing field. Many attended and appreciated the music and interesting spoken word. The delicious potluck picnic was greatly appreciated.

A field trip was planned to the Oregon Conference of Seventh-day Adventists Headquarters at Gladstone on Sunday, Sept. 28.

Dr. Frank Hurd will be the speaker for the first Monday in October Health and Cooking Classes on Oct. 6 at 6:30 p.m. His topic will be on weight management and maintaining a healthy lifestyle. The fellowship hall of the Cave Junction Seventh-day Adventist Church will feature South of the Border decor. The recipes will be exciting new ones featuring cuisine of Old Mexico; tables can be reserved by phoning 592-3218, 592-3495 or 479-1755. A delicious meal will be served and interesting topics presented.
