

Meengs-Postlewait recite wedding vows

Jill Postlewait, the daughter of Fred & Merrie Postlewait, of Newport, Ore.; and Chad Meengs, son of John & Della Meengs, of Cave Junction, were married on Aug. 2, 2008 at Postlewait Events in Canby, Ore, in an outdoor evening ceremony.

The bride’s cousin, Kurt Sommer, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by longtime friends, Holly Branford Schaures and Jeni Rivers-Smith, of Newport; her sister-in-law, Kasey Postlewait, of Seal Rock, Ore.; sister-in-law Liz Postlewait, of Toledo, Ore.; and the bridegroom’s sister, Maria Lathrop, of Tualatin, Ore.

The bride carried a bouquet of blue hydrangea, white tulips and stephanotis.

The bridegroom was attended by his longtime friends, Tom McLennan, of Corvallis, Ore.; Pablo Chauvin, of Portland, Ore.; the bride’s brothers, Joe Postlewait of Seal Rock; Jake Postlewait, of Toledo; and the bridegroom’s brother-in-law, Jeff Lathrop, of Tualatin.

The bridegroom’s niece, Natalie Lathrop, was the flower girl. Tyler Lathrop and Sam Postlewait, nephews of the bride and bridegroom, were the ring bearers.

An outdoor reception immediately followed the ceremony and featured a dinner catered by Charlie Branford, of Newport; and a cake by Chocolette’s of Canby. A second reception was held in Cave Junction on Aug. 9.

The bride graduated from Newport High School and attended Oregon State University at Corvallis. She currently works at Oregon Coast Bank as an assistant vice president, and as branch manager in Newport.

The bridegroom graduated from Illinois Valley High School in Cave Junction and attended Oregon State University. He currently works as an importer in Eugene.

The couple honeymooned in Ecuador and Peru, and reside in Philomath, Ore.

Voters info for county now online

The Josephine County Voters Pamphlet has been posted on the county clerk’s Website.

“On Nov. 4, registered voters will be asked to weigh in on many important ballot measures and races,” said County Clerk Art Harvey. “The pamphlet will provide information regarding these measures, as well as arguments pro and con.

“Candidate statements by those who have paid the required fee and chosen to be included also are featured.”

Visit the county Website: co.josephine.or.us and follow the menu to Departments, Clerk’s Office, Election/Voter Registration, Current Election Information, and Voters Pamphlet/Local. A link will be provided to the state pamphlet when it is posted, Harvey said.

Tuesday, Oct. 14 is the last day to register to vote in the General Election. Ballots are scheduled to be mailed to registered voters of Josephine County on Friday, Oct. 17.

Emergency chief urging flood insurance

It’s a good time for home owners and renters to ensure their property against flooding as the fall and winter storm season nears, said Ken Murphy, Oregon Emergency Management (OEM) director.

Not doing so could prove costly, as there is a 30-day waiting period before policies take effect after purchase.

Heavy rains and snow runoff can cause river flooding. Flooding in Oregon causes millions of dollars in damage almost yearly, and the only way renters and home owners can insure their property against such losses is with flood insurance.

“The National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) is one of the best ways to avoid major losses,” said Murphy.

“Even a few inches of water can mean thousands of dollars in repair and restoration costs. Most home owner’s insurance policies do not cover floods so you need flood insurance to protect against these losses.”

Added Dennis Sigrist, OEM mitigation specialist, “It is important to buy an NFIP policy now because coverage will not take effect until 30 days after purchase. Flood insurance will cover eligible losses regardless of whether the event is declared a federal disaster or not.

“We often see flooding situations where stream or urban runoff affects a few homes and therefore does not qualify for any government disaster aid. In those situations, an NFIP policy can save a home owner or renter considerable financial loss.”

Some 25 percent of all claims paid by NFIP are for homes and apartments outside of mapped high-risk flood zones. Home owners can insure a home structure up to $250,000 and its contents up to $100,000. These are two separate policies.

Renters can cover belongings up to $100,000. Nonresidential property owners can insure buildings and contents up to $500,000.

The average yearly cost of a NFIP policy is approximately $400, which is less expensive in many cases than one month’s car payment, said Murphy. More information on NFIP and home flood risk can be found at www.floodsmart.gov.

Obituaries

Dorothy S. Haynie

Former Cave Junction and Grants Pass resident, Dorothy Sanders Haynie, 82, of Holiday, Fla., died Monday, Sept. 29, 2008 at her home.

Visitation was held Saturday, Oct. 4, at Illinois Valley Funeral Directors Chapel in Cave Junction. A funeral service was conducted Sunday, Oct. 5 at the same location. Interment followed at Laurel Cemetery in Cave Junction.

Mrs. Haynie was born on June 3, 1926 in Signal Mountain, Tenn. She moved from Tennessee to Manhattan Beach, Calif., where she raised four children as a single mom. After living in Manhattan Beach for 22 years she moved to Cave Junction in 1980. Five years ago she moved to Holiday.

She was a member of Bridgeview Community Church in Cave Junction, and the Illinois Valley Quilters. She enjoyed square dancing, gardening, canning, fishing, boating, traveling, and being a grandparent.

Surviving are her husband, Orval Haynie, of Holiday; a daughter, Linda Loo, of Odessa, Fla.; three sons, William Sampley, of Cave Junction, and Wallace Sampley and Gregory Sampley, both of Holiday; two sisters, Oleta Quarles of Signal Mountain, and Peggy Hart, of Texas; 12 grandchildren; and 13 great-grandchildren.
