Mildrene C. Herbold
Mildrene Herbold, born Oct. 20, 1925, died Oct. 9, 2009 in San Francisco from causes related to advanced dementia brought on by several strokes.

Mildrene C. Herbold

She was born in Oklahoma, abandoned at an early age and adopted by George & Iva Cornford, who were residents of Cave Junction from 1970 to 1992.

Mildrene at age 12 rode a Greyhound bus without family accompaniment to join family in Los Angeles, who had moved there several years previously. After living in near-starvation conditions in Oklahoma she said that California was paradise with lots of food where she had her first meal of meat and green vegetables. She looked forward to Wednesdays because that was the day that the local theater had two new movies.

She excelled in high school from which she graduated with honors during World War II. She became a draughtsman in an airplane plant where she met her future husband, Lt. Walter delaMere, a U.S. Army Air Corps pilot. She married and had two daughters.

In 1948 the Air Corps issued orders to send the entire family to the Aleutian Islands off Alaska where Lt. delaMere had been stationed in WWII. This prompted Mildrene to go on the program, “Queen for a Day,” where she won, claiming that, “I have no blankets for my baby girls.” Her prizes included rose satin-quilted comforters, a washer and dryer and a trip to New York City for two people. She said she felt like a country bumpkin because she couldn’t figure out the subways.

Several months later the relocation orders were canceled.
It is in the nature of her subsequent disease that she cut up a large photo of herself in an ermine cape and tiara standing next to Queen MC Jack Bailey.

She was divorced in 1953, held a number of jobs to support her children and became a Licensed Vocational Nurse. In 1985 she moved to Cave Junction to care for her parents and was lonely at first, but, at the urging of her daughter joined a quilting group and formed many friendships. She was the happiest she had been in her life for a long time living there with, as she said, “No man to take care of.” She loved her dog, reading, sewing and gardening.

She traveled to Europe to see the great gardens of the world, and her ashes will be strewn in a special garden she visited in the San Francisco Bay Area where her surviving daughter, Cheryl delaMere, lives, along with grandchildren Shawna and Michael J. Heffernan. Her daughter, Delane (Cindy) delaMere, preceded her in death.

No services are pending.

Correspondence may be sent to her daughter at 1927 42nd Ave., San Francisco CA 94116.

Church News

Seventh-day Adventist Church, Cave Junction
“Heaven came down and Glory filled my soul!” Brother Richard Carrigan gave an inspiring message telling us that we can’t hang onto the world with one hand and the other hand grasping for Jesus.
He asked everyone to come off the fence and walk the straight and narrow with the mercy of Jesus.

God’s mercy and saving power was evident after the annual Harvest Festival. The Keith & Michelle Binker Family awoke Oct. 19 to a house filled with choking smoke in the early morning hours. They managed to get their boys out into the cold, and they followed. They had such a short time to escape the flames: Everything was left in ashes in a short time. They felt so alone with all their possessions gone, but yet they were rejoicing that they were all alive.

Praise God for saving this precious family. Home Valley Bank is standing ready to take donations for this family.

The Madrone Adventist Elementary School had special prayer for their fellow students, the Binker boys, Paul and Ian.

They got their parents to clean out their closets and pantries to help the Binkers. Games and show-and-tell displays are in ashes, so the students are working on a fund for their buddies, Paul and Ian.

Our prayers are constant for this wonderful family.

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church
In the Old Testament we learn of the covenant God made with his chosen people, the Jews. It was a covenant that required the Jewish people to follow certain laws of God, and to be faithful to Him. But the people didn’t keep their end of the bargain.
So, what did God do for a new covenant with his people? He sent his son, Jesus, to Earth not only to teach God’s word, but also to die on the cross for our sins. And what are the means we have to be one of God’s chosen people? All we need do is believe in God and his son. That is how we keep the new covenant with God.
