Hoedown ... Continued from A-9

An informal Valley Girls quilt show has been a highlight of each year's hoedown and will again grace the walls of the old gymnasium.

Off the Hook Barbeque will again be parked on site to offer snacks or dinner throughout the evening. IRVAC will also offer beverages and desserts. A 50/50 drawing and a pie auction will also help to raise program funds.

IRVAC president Kent Fisher is chair of the event.

"We welcome everyone to experience what life was like in this valley not so long ago," Fisher said. "Hoedowns and barn dances offer the opportunity to gather, celebrate and enjoy toe-tapping music. Many of the patterns date back hundreds of years. They're simple, fun dances that anybody can do. And if you don't want to dance, come and hang out, enjoy the show and visit with your neighbors."

Admission is $10 at the door. Youth 8 to 18 will be admitted at half price. IRVAC is a 501c3 non-profit organization. For further information, visit www.irvac.com. Patrons are asked to call 541-592-6288 to volunteer for the event or for further information.
