CITY . . .

Jimmy Evans, of CJ Patrol, said, "We are not asking for permission, we are not asking for compensation from the city. We are just doing this because we want police at night."

Evans spoke to the council about his groups desire to comply with all state and local regulations. They currently comply with state regulations and are working on getting more training for their volunteers so they all meet Oregon Department of Public Safety Standards and Training standards. This includes armed and unarmed training. Councilors expressed admiration for Evans and his group, as well as concerns about armed citizens patrolling the streets. Safety and liability concerns are an issue for both the city and CJ Patrol.

The council amended city code, deleting the words "without receiving compensation" from the definition of "Security Patrol." This allowed CJ Patrol to get back on the street without delay. The council will be discussing the issue with legal counsel and CJ Patrol in the coming days to devise a better solution and shield the city from liability concerns.

The Cave Junction City Council meets the second Monday of each month, with more meetings added as issues arise. The next council meeting will be Monday, Oct. 24. All meetings are held at 7 p.m. at City Hall, 222 W Lister Street. The public is welcome.
