BLUEGRASS ...

- Kelly Bosworth is from Portland where she was raised on family jam sessions and classical music. She's a singer - songwriter specializing in folk Americana.
 - Twangsville is a San Francisco Bay area country band offering fresh energy and stellar musicianship to country classics. They'll also be playing at McGrew's Friday night.
 - Chip Dennerlein is a Grants Pass singer-songwriter whose albums include "Easier with Time" and "Sing the World into Wonder." His influences include the Commitments, the Wilburs and gospel.
 - The Antonucci Collective's brothers Gary and Rich Antonucci have been performing for over 40 years specializing in traditional bluegrass, newgrass and folk. Their most recent album is "Acoustic Vortex."
 - The final performers will be Etouffee, led by fiddler Kelly Thibodeaux of Baton Rouge, Louisiana. The group combines rhythm and blues with southern rock for their danceable swamp rock formula.
- Event organizer Jannie Crocker stated proceeds from the all-day concert will go toward Rotary Club of the I.V. projects. The group plans a repeat of their Dr. Seuss Day literacy program at Evergreen Elementary and their "Toys and Cookies" Christmas celebration.

"It's been our big dream since our club started to fund a scholarship, and we're hoping to be able to do that," Crocker concluded.

Once again, Wild River Brewing and Pizza Co. will be selling hotdogs, hamburgers, vegan and vegetarian food and beer. A selection of wine from Bridgeview will also be available for purchase.

Attendees are welcome to bring their own food and non-alcoholic beverages. No outside alcohol or dogs will be allowed at the family-friendly event.

Concert-goers are encouraged to bring their own seating and pop-ups for shade. The site includes a disc golf course a few steps away.

Camping is also available with the Mallard Loop campground reserved for late-night jamming.

Admission remains $15 per person, children 12 and under free and the county parking permit is $5 for the day.

Volunteers are still needed for setup, cleanup, plus gate and food sales. Call Ted Crocker at H&R Block, 541-592-3667.

In addition to Wild River and Bridgeview sponsoring this year's event, other sponsors include Dutch Bros., The G Spot, H&R Block, Illinois Valley News, Jefferson State Financial Group, Pacific Power, Rough & Ready Lumber, Southern Oregon Sanitation and U.S. Bank. And the stage is provided by Willie Whitchurch Trucking.
