‘Angels Among Us’ show opens and Cobra Lily 3 debuts at the Guild Gallery Nov. 19

Many believe there are angels among us all the time, but the holiday season seems an especially good time to celebrate what some believe to be mere fantasy and others are certain is part of our unseen reality.

Some of Southern Oregon Guild’s artists are exploring the idea, “Angels Among Us”, for their final exhibit of 2017, which opens with a celebration on Sunday, Nov. 19 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Guild Gallery and Art Center on the RCC Kerby Campus in Kerby.

Does an angel appear in the form of a bird that perches near you and speaks to you with a song? Or is it a warning of danger in your ear as you round a country bend? Why do the angels we picture often have wings? Come share your ideas and begin getting in the holiday mood. Come put on your own halo and have some fun.

The new exhibit will offer many gift ideas, including one special new one to share with friends and family who love both the literary and the visual arts. The third annual Cobra Lily, a review of southwest Oregon literature and art will be released at this opening event. Copies will be available for purchase and some of the contributing artists and writers will be there to read or talk about their work.

Because the Guild members work in all creative media – the visual, the performing, and the language arts – you will find a wide selection of creative works by southern Oregon artists. Between the holiday Silent Auction and the array of one-of-a-kind art and fine crafts available, there are lots of choices for holiday gift giving.

The event also features live music, wine tasting, an hors d’oeuvre buffet, and lively conversation. The $5 admission includes all that and a raffle ticket for the evening’s drawing, which, if it doesn’t win, goes into the 2017 Grand Prize drawing in December. The prize, a beautiful large copper piece, will be on display.
