Community Bank Announces 60th Anniversary

On May 25, 2015, Community Bank (formerly Bank of Wallowa County) will celebrate its 60th anniversary. The bank is one of the 24 remaining independent banks in the State of Oregon (in 1982 that number was 88). Community Bank is now one of the last remaining independent banks operating in Northeastern Oregon and Southeastern Washington.

Since 1991 Community Bank has expanded significantly - from two branches and 13 employees to 14 full-service branches and over 130 employees. In 1991, Community Bank managed and protected $15 million for their customers. Today, that number exceeds $320 million.

Community Bank prides itself on investing money back into the communities it serves in the form of business and personal loans. In addition to direct loans, Community Bank is also a large investor in municipal bonds for schools, roads and sewers, and many other projects that help to make our communities stronger and a better place to live.

"We owe our success to the dedication of our employees, and the support of our customers, who understand the importance of 'banking local'. If it wasn't for these folks, Community Bank would have become another statistic long ago," says President and CEO, Tom Moran.

As a thank you to the local communities and customers, Community Bank is conducting a year-long Silver Sweepstakes to celebrate their 60th Anniversary. Each month 60 ounces of silver bullion will be given away - a 10 oz bar to six lucky winners. Drawings will be held on the last full business day of each month (at each branch) with the first drawing to be held January 30, 2015. With fourteen branches, that will be 14 names advanced to the prize drawings. A random drawing of six names will determine the lucky winners for the month. Enter up to once every business day at a local Community Bank branch. There is no purchase necessary and a full disclosure is available at your local Community Bank or online at www.communitybanknet.com.

Stained Glass Windows Being Restored at Geiser

The Geiser Grand boasted an extravagant stained glass ceiling in the late nineteenth century. It's not known why or how it was lost sometime around 1930. A replacement was created in the course of the restoration of the Geiser Grand, installed in 1998 at a cost of more than a quarter of a million dollars. The design for this national historic landmark was approved by the National Park Service as well as the State Historic Preservation Officer. Antique nineteenth century glass was incorporated into the ceiling design; the purple is from Poland and the red from Germany.

Over the years, dirt has intruded into the skylight that lies above the stained glass ceiling. A plan to clean and restore the pieces of stained glass was crafted. It's a complicated endeavor. Structural loading calculations were made to not cause undue stress on the building. An approach of building a base platform on the second floor, and then scaffolding up above that platform was settled on. This provides for safety and ease of the workers and the ability of the workers to do their work with confidence.

Local contractors and workers are engaged in this work, including Rafter M Construction. This continues the tradition the Geiser Grand set in the 1990's restoration of supporting local businesses.

Work is expected to be completed by Jan. 31 when the Palm Court will reopen. The public can enjoy this wonderful space during dinner service every night. Additionally, tours are held on Fridays and Saturdays at 3:30.

Photography Classes Offered at Crossroads
This Friday and Saturday

Crossroads is excited to welcome back Fine Art Photographer/ Instructor Michael Anderson, an internationally recognized fine art photographer from West Linn, Ore., who will be sharing his tricks and techniques with students. He has received eight international awards for his fine art photography and he has also received numerous Awards of Merit from the Columbia Council of Camera Clubs, the Oregon Professional Photographer's Association and the Professional Photographer's of America. His work has also been featured in Professional Photography Magazine and the Photographic Society of America Journal. Anderson's work is also shown at galleries throughout the Northwest, including Peterson's Gallery here in Baker City.

Anderson will be teaching two classes at Crossroads:
Fine Art Photography - Basic to Advanced on Friday, Jan. 30 from 5:30-8:30 p.m. for a cost of $50 for members and $75 for non-members. Teens and adults are welcome.

Skill level: Aspiring to Advanced
If you have a digital camera and a good eye for art, you can easily create digital photos that have the potential to become works of art. Even cell phone photos can be turned into fine pieces of art. This course is all about creating works of art from digital photos.

This course will cover camera settings, depth of field, artistic composition and basic photo editing techniques using OnOne Perfect Photo Suite 9.0. This is not an ordinary photography class, as emphasis is placed on the creation of fine art pieces using a digital photograph as a starting point. The class is taught as a demonstration class so the student does not need to bring a computer.

The second class Michael will be teaching is High Dynamic Range (HDR) Photography on Saturday, Jan. 31 from 10-1 p.m. Cost is again $50 for member and $75 for non-members and is open to teens through adults. The skill level is for aspiring to advanced photographers.

If your digital camera has the capability to shoot RAW files, then this is the class for you. Have you ever wondered why your photos don't turn out like what you saw when you clicked the shutter? This class will cover that topic and show you how to create better photographs. If your camera does not have the ability to create RAW files, then this class might not be right for you.

Anderson is the designated HDR Mentor for the Photographic Society of America.

This course is about using HDR tools and techniques to improve your photography. Even today's modern cameras can't see everything the human eye can see. That is the reason we are sometimes disappointed when our photos turn out different from what we viewed when we took the picture. The human eye is amazing and we can use technology to manipulate our digital photographs to look just right. You will leave this class knowing how to use the setting features of your camera fully and how to turn photographs into works of art through use of the HDR software. Don't get hung up thinking that HDR software only creates wild and over-saturated photos. In this course you will learn how to create natural looking photographs while still avoiding problems with HDR scenes.

This class will be held in a lecture and demonstration format so you won't need to bring a computer. Just bring an open mind and lots of questions. Handouts will be provided and illustrative demonstrations will be given so that you leave the class with a full understanding of the HDR process.
