

PLEASE STOP NUCLEAR

WARS

Peace not nuclear war

Netasha Carnell

Peace — wouldn't it be much better if we had more? I think it would be very nice because there wouldn't be any more wars, no more people disliking each other. It would be like an out of tune piano if there wasn't peace, but with peace it's like a pattern of harmony and love for each other. If there was peace it would be like a big flower garden blooming in peace and love. Peace means sharing our food and drink with the people who need it to stay alive, to love everyone good or bad, rich or poor, black or white. Peace is just something you can't say with words, it's like a feeling deep inside that you can't describe because peace is a type of love either because it won't really come out of your heart or because it's only your secret and your feelings that will really know what peace is. And peace is beautiful and that's what it should be to everyone.

— Kristi Robinson

The drawings and written statements on this page are by fourth grade students at the Bush School in Seattle. Their teacher, Joan Marsh, asked for their impressions of nuclear warfare during "Nuclear Awareness Week" earlier this month.

Rita Conley

I think that if we are mad at someone, we should talk to him or her about it, or someone else who has nothing to do with the fight (or whatever made you mad) might get hurt. Conflict between any number of people or countries can cause fights or wars. If it's a fight people might lose friends and get hurt. Small fights are not serious because usually it is between family members or friends so they are easily forgotten. If it's a war billions of people will get killed unless we can stop nuclear bombs and wars and make peace.

— Jenni Westburg

I think nuclear wars are dead ends! I think they should take all the nuclear bombs and throw them off the earth. . . . Because if nuclear war breaks out it probably will be like World War II only worse.

— Malika Carter

Nuclear power is used in many ways including bombs. It is also used for medicine. Nuclear power is made in huge reactors. Nuclear power comes from the center of an atom called nucleus. If there is World War Three, it will probably be nuclear war. With thirty nuclear bombs you could destroy the U.S.A.!

— Jeff Ryan

