Chris Bernard, assistant area director in Independence, took a group of over 60 teen-agers on a beach trip several weeks ago. They had a wonderful time, despite one problem. They forgot to bring any food. By mid-afternoon everyone was very hungry, so they all put their money together and bought bread and peanut butter. Chris says that another trip is planned next month, but the "sandwich committee" will probably have new members.

Fantasy From the Bean Festival

Arlene Isaacson, Vista Volunteer, never fails to bring us a joke. Here is her gem for this week. Read it twice.

Joe: Why do elephants paint their toenails green?

Schmoe: To hide in the fields.

Joe: You're kidding.

Schmoe: Have you ever seen an elephant in a bean field?

Joe: No.

Schmoe: It works, doesn't it?
