SUS CARAS dicen, "Es divertido, pero miedoso a ver los artistas del trapecio."

Last week 43 kids from the Salem area had a special treat. They attended the Shriner's Circus as guests of the V.M.L.

For most of the youngsters it was the first time they had ever been to a circus. They saw many animals, including lions, leopards and panthers. The other attractions were clowns and of course, the most exciting of all, the trapeze artists.

La semana pasada 43 niños del área de Salem pasaron una tarde agradable. Asistieron al circo patrocinado por los Shriners como invitados del VML.

Para la mayor parte de estos niños era la primera vez que habían asistido a un circo. Vieron muchos animales, inclusivos los leones, los leopardos y las panteras. Las otras atracciones por supuestos fueron los payasos y lo más emocionante de todo fueron los trapecistas.

HOW STORY HOUR BEGAN

Deborah Albright, a VISTA Volunteer at West Stayton, told how story hour began at one of her camps.

"I went in to the Fred Wallis camp to speak with someone, and a group of children gathered around my car. I decided to tell them a story. Other children came to listen. Now I go on certain evenings each week and six or seven children always meet me at the camp at eight o'clock. I always bring a book with me."

Both Corrine Clifford and Deborah now read to the children at this camp. "Debbie" studied elementary education at St. Charles, Illinois. She is taking care of registration for day care at the West Stayton Opportunity Center.

LA HORA DE CUENTOS

Deborah Albright, una voluntaria de VISTA de West Stayton, relata como empezó la hora de cuentos infantiles en uno de los campamentos.

"Fui al campamento de Fred Wallis para hablar con alguien y un grupo de niños se juntó alrededor de mi coche. Decidí contarles un cuento. Otros niños vinieron a escuchar. Ahora voy a ciertas noches cada semana y seis o siete niños siempre me reciben a las 8 p.m. al bajarme del coche. Siempre llevo libros conmigo."

Ambas Corrine Clifford y Deborah ahora leen a los niños en este campamento. Debbie estudió la educación primaria en St. Charles, Illinois. Ella se encarga de la matrícula del programa de atención a los niños en el Centro de Oportunidad de West Stayton.
