FRANK BUCHANAN'S SPEECH.

Washington.—Frank Buchanan, member of the Structural Iron Workers and represent of the Structural Iron Workers and representing one of the Chicago congressional districts, was exceedingly active in the discussion of the naval appropriation bill, which recently passed the House. Mr. Buchanan is a member of the naval affairs committee and during the progress of the consideration of this bill derogatory reference was made by some of the members on the floor to the political attitude assumed by the American Federation of Labor. Referring to this particular phase of the discussion Mr. Buchanan said:

"Now, something has been said here about the president of the American Federation of Labor in regard to his activity in political affairs. I know something about that matter. I know Mr. Gompers personally, and respect and admire him for his brilliant intellect, rugged honesty, sincerity of purpose, and fidelity to a principle and I know something about his record as a laboring man. Mr. Gompers hesitated to go into politics and when he did go into it, it was to carry out the demands of a conference that was held, if my memory serves me right, in March, 1907, and which might be called a special convention which had representatives not only of those organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, but those that were not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and I suppose so far as representation is concerned it was one of the largest conventions of the laboring people of this country have ever had. The American Federation of Labor never has been a partisan organization. Its political influence has never been used only to support its friends and oppose its enemies. The Socialists in the labor movement endeavored at times to make the Federation of Labor a tool for that political group, but failed. The American trade union movement has refused to be the tail of the kite of any political organization. Mr. Gompers' political position has been the position of organized labor, and that is what I desire to make clear to you, that Mr. Gompers should not be attacked for what he has done in political matters unless you attack the trades unions, because he was carrying out what he had been instructed to do by the representatives of the unions, and I think it was a credit to him to make the political fight he did in 1908. To do so was answering the call of duty."

SENATOR SMITH'S "TITANIC" SPEECH.

Washington, June 8.—Senator Smith of Michigan, who was chairman of the senatorial committee that investigated the Titanic disaster, made a report to the Senate on May 28. During the course of his address which, taken as a whole, was a splendid effort, he made use of the following language, which indicates that the investigation instituted by the committee was comprehensively made: "Lanes of travel must be more carefully defined, strength of how more positive and water-tight subdivision to limit submergence, life-saving equipment better and numerous enough for all, discipline and practice a rudimentary exaction, eye more keen and ear alert to catch the warning cry; as on British battleships as well as our own, powerful lights should be provided for merchant vessels to search out the partially submerged derelict; buoys should be carried by every ship to mark temporarily the place of the ship's burial in case of accident; and men of strength and spirit there must be, won back to a calling already demoralized and decadent. But ten per cent of the men before the mast in merchant marine are natives or naturalized Americans; even England, that twenty years ago had barely 7,000 Orientals on her merchant ships, now carries over 70,000 of that alien race. Americans must enlist in this service, they must become the soldiers of the sea, and, whether on lookout, on deck, or at the wheel, whether able or common seamen, they should be better paid for their labor and more highly honored in their calling; their rights must be respected, and their work carefully performed; harsh and severe restraining statutes must be repealed, and a new dignity given this important field of labor."

URGES ONE DAY IN SEVEN.

Washington—"Old age at 40 is not conservation, it is brutality," declared Dr. John B. Andrews of New York recently at the opening of the 28th annual convention of the International Association of Commissioners of Labor and Factory Inspectors. Dr. Andrews, who is the secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation, called a forcible attention to the seven-day-a-week workers of the country, declaring it the duty of every factory inspector to work to the end that every worker in the United States shall be able to obtain one day a week in which to enjoy home life, which, we have been taught to regard as the foundation of our social system.

I. T. U. ELECTION RESULTS.

Official returns from the referendum vote on election of officers in the International Typographical Union reveals that James M. Lynch has been re-elected president. The vote for Tracy of San Francisco, and Duncan of New York for vice-president indicates an extremely close vote, with Duncan elected. Secretary-treasurer Hays has been re-elected. For delegates to the A. F. of L. Morrison, Hayes, McCullough and Stevenson have been re-elected, with Morrison leading the entire ticket with over 30,000 votes. Miss Wilson, Powell, Wood and Ames have been elected trustees of the union printers' home at Colorado Springs. Roberts of Washington has been elected agent for the union printers' home. The two propositions submitted to increase the salary of the president and secretary-treasurer to $3,500 per annum have been carried by a narrow margin.

During the first four months in this year the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway employes has paid out in funeral and death benefits to its membership Chicago the sum of $26,150. Of this sum the local branch in Chicago paid $8,500, the balance being borne by the International organization.
