LIBERAL LEAGUE (By the Secretary.) Although the evening was cold and rainy a fair sized crowd greeted A. S. Ruth, who spoke under the auspices of the Liberal League of Oregon, at Baker Hall, Seventeenth and Alberta, Friday evening.

Mr. Ruth, unlike the people who represent the Anti-Saloon League and the Prohibitionists in general, made no statements which were not backed up with an abundance of proof. Statements made by the Anti-Saloon League and others as to the commitments for drunkenness in Washington, Oregon and Kansas were shown to be absolutely false and misleading particularly as to Kansas and Oregon.

Organized labor over the State of Oregon fully realizes at this time the fallacy of the prohibition movement and is not being deceived by the advertisements of the Anti-Saloon League. Organized labor and others who do not propose to allow a class to legislate their freedom away from them, are leaving nothing of a legitimate nature undone that will keep Oregon from going into the dry column and ranking with Kansas, Maine, North Dakota and the rest of the states that have accepted the prohibition rule and deprived their citizens of a portion of the rights granted them by the Constitution of these United States.

Next Tuesday evening there will be a meeting held under the auspices of the Liberal League at the Sellwood Commercial Club, 571 Umatilla street. Good speakers will be present and if there are any of the opposition who may think this league

BANKS OPPOSE UNIONS

Sensational testimony was submitted to the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations on the method employed by Stockton banks to force merchants into the anti-union employers' association of that city.

Fred L. Kincaid, a land dealer, told the commission he was requested to visit the First National bank, whose officers informed him that the policy of Editor Martin of the Record was distasteful to the employers; that they would withdraw their support, and "put the screws to him" if the policy of the paper was not changed.

The witness stated further: "While I was talking to the banker, he mentioned that a man had been in there that morning who owed money to the bank on an overdraft, and the banker had asked him if he would join the manufacturers. He refused. The demand was then made upon him that he pay the overdraft immediately.

"This same man happened to owe me money on some notes. He came to me and told me of the incident and asked for a little more time on the notes, which I gave him. He said he was opposed to the manufacturers. A day or two later, he informed me he was called on to pay $1,900 which he owed for machinery in his laundry plant. He came to me for the money, but I was unable to lend it to him. However, I took him to another bank, the head of which had at various times suggested that I might secure business for him.

"When the situation was explained to this second banker, he promptly informed me that there was an agreement between the bankers that they were not to take accounts of that sort."

Proportional Representation. The wisest piece of constructive legislation proposed to the people of Oregon is the one numbered 348 X Yes on the ballot. It is one of the measures that the special privileged classes are chipping in from $100 up (no less sum accepted from anybody) to defeat, and the avowed reason of its defeat is that it would give organized labor a voice in the Legislature in proportion to its voting strength. It would make every man's vote an effective vote, and every advanced and progressive body of political thought could send its fair share of members to the Legislature. Its principles have been long tested out in many other parts of the globe.

The Labor Day number of the Labor Press is the best effort yet of that worthy publication. In this connection we note with regret the intention of Mr. Harris to sever his connections with that publication. Harris has improved the Labor Press. His loss will be felt.—Mt. Scott Herald.

SIGN UNION CONTRACT.

Thirty-five independent coal operators of Colorado have signed working agreements with the United Mine Workers of America. Two thousand men are affected. The scale in force the past year was again accepted. The operators asked for the inclusion of several clauses in the agreement for their protection and the unionists complied. It is believed that other independent operators will sign within a few days.

The Portland Labor Press issued a beautiful Labor Day number, extensively illustrating the many magnificent buildings and skyscrapers of the City of Portland, the splendid bridges spanning the Willamette and Columbia rivers at and near the metropolis, and containing much of special interest to the labor organizations and the general public as well. This Labor Day number excels any other ever put out by the management of this paper and certainly does credit to the great organizations it represents.—Gazette-Times, Heppner, Ore.
