The Mayflower sets sail from Plymouth, England, September 6, 1620, with 102 passengers determined to start a colony in the New World. Beset on the 66-day voyage by storms that damage the ship, the colonists, their leader William Bradford writes later, "committed them selves to the will of God, and resolved to proseeede" rather than return. They land at Cape Cod November. <https://www.smithsonianmag.com/history/this-month-in-history-1-54852885/>
