John Andoh appointed CAT assistant executive director

The Hood River County Transportation District Board brings a has appointed John Andoh to serve as assistant executive director of Columbia Area Transit (CAT), with a transition to the position of executive director in July 2022, when current Executive Director Patty Fink retires.

Under the mentorship of Fink, Andoh will assist with updating the Transit Master Plan, meet and collaborate with community members and civic leaders, and learn the ropes at CAT to assume the directorship next year.

"John wealth of transportation experience from a variety of communities," said Board Chair Lara Dunn. "We are confident he can build on the strong foundation we have at CAT and will introduce innovations to take our transit system to the next level."

Burn bans expand in Klickitat County

County officials previously announced a ban on outdoor burning in Zone One. That ban went into effect May 1 and is expected to stay in place through Sept. 30.

In 2018, Klickitat County Department of Emergency Management (KCDEM) in cooperation with the Klickitat County Interagency Fire Association (KCIFA) created new County Burn Ban Zone designations for establishing county outdoor burn bans. This consists of three zones across the county, starting in the east with Zone One, then Zone Two covering the central area, and Zone Three covering the west end of the county. For clarity the zone boundaries follow fire district boundaries as much as possible. Maps detailing the zone boundaries have been created and are available to view and download on the Klickitat County Department of Emergency Management webpage.

Hood River begins search for new city manager

■ By Gail Oberst For Columbia Gorge News

The Hood River City Council has chosen Jensen Strategies, a Portland firm, to help recruit its next city manager. Rachael Fuller, the current city manager, announced her resignation in March and leaves July 2.

Cost for the search, which may take up to six months, begins at $25,000, not including expenses that could add $5,000 or more. The council will most likely hire an interim city manager as the search is likely to extend beyond July 2, said Mayor Kate McBride.

Jensen Strategies has worked with the council with goal-setting in the past. The firm has also helped other cities recruit city managers for other Oregon towns including North Bend,

Sheridan, Carlton, Cannon Beach and Sisters. Although the timeline and details may change, the firm's plan proposes the search will begin with public and internal meetings to establish desirable attributes in the next city manager, after which the firm will present the council with a draft candidate profile and then create a recruitment brochure.
