New Sohler Trade Scholarship Fund supports Hood River students

The new Sohler Scholarship Fund, created by the family of the late George "Larry" Sohler, a community leader who passed away in March 2021, will provide scholarships for seniors at Hood River Valley High School beginning with the class of 2022 to pursue skilled vocational training. Sohler had a long career in the Gorge as a heavy equipment owner and operator working with local orchardists.

As his widow, Lucille "Luci" Sohler said, "Our family is pleased to offer this opportunity in Larry's memory to Hood River Valley High School students. Larry believed that vocational training provides young people with a wide variety of career opportunities."

Sohler's own career included stints as an electrician, farmer, trucker and heavy equipment operator. He had a gift for restoring tractors and farm machinery and wanted to share these skills with young people just entering the work force.

Vocational education is available at many institutions in Washington and Oregon, including Perry Trade School (Yakima), Portland Community College, Lane County Community College, Mt. Hood Community College, Clark College, Oregon Institute of Technology (Klamath Falls), and Columbia Gorge Community College.

Updates on GCF grantmaking and asset growth At three-quarters of the way through fiscal year 2021, the Gorge Community Foundation has made more than $350,000 in grants, an increase of more than $100,000 over 2020, representing grants to over 80 Gorge organizations. Since 2003, the foundation has given over $2 million in local grants in its six-county service area in Washington and Oregon, as well as $300,000 in scholarships.

As of the end of May, GCF's assets currently stand at over $8 million, fueled by support from fundholders and investments managed by Ferguson Wellman in Portland. This growth creates more grantmaking opportunities for donors and fundholders. GCF also welcomed new scholarship and donor advised funds in 2021.
