Little Torches.

BY W. E. JOHNSON.

A good paymaster never wants workmen. How about the Lord? —[Christian Standard (Phila.)

The Lord pays in promises. He is n. g.

None of us can tell for what God is educating us.—[Cumberland Presbyterian.

Your scriptures inform us that he is educating most of us for a front seat in hell.

God is faithful who will not suffer us to be tempted above what we are able to bear.—[Christian Standard.

The fact that 60,000 human beings go into drunkards' graves every year in this country brands that statement as a lie. Even if it should be true, what business has God to connive at the downfall of the weak, which he does by permitting them to be tempted?

Let it be proclaimed from every pulpit in all the world every Lord's day that nothing damns but unbelief.—[Christian Conservator.

That's right, proclaim it. Fill up your heaven with believing horse thieves, murderers and rape fiends. Send Huxley, Darwin, Ingersoll, Ben Franklin, Paine, Thos. Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Voltaire to hell, where they belong. That's what the pulpit is for, anyhow—to damn decent folks.

Friendly Letters.

ing completed for so worthy an institution as the Liberal University, where the rising and future generations may be educated in all the sciences, arts and everything that may add to the morality, intellect and good of the race. What little I am induced now to give toward the building is freely and cheerfully given. When your organization is completed, with good substantial men and women on the board of directors, the Freethinkers of the country will be willing and anxious to cast in their mites and help along with the work. I enclose herewith subscription for ten shares of stock and $100 to pay for the same.

Yours truly,
R. C. B.

Prof. W. J. McGee of the Bureau of America of Ethnology, Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C., writes as follows:

"I have received the marked copy of the Torch of Reason, and have noted with much interest the essential features in the platform of the Liberal University. The movement on the part of the founders of this institution is in the direct line of progress."
