A Free Trip to Paris!

Reliable persons of a mechanical or inventive mind desiring a trip to the Paris Exposition, with good salary and expenses paid, should write The PATENT RECORD, Baltimore, Md.

NEW AND CURIOUS.

Some of the railways in the South are offering special excursion rates to various points on its lines where the total eclipse of the sun may be seen. These rates are given only to passengers who go in parties of ten.

It is estimated that 150,000 Americans will visit Paris sometime while the Exposition is open. These figures are said to be based upon the number of residents now abroad and the capacity of the transatlantic steamers. It seems very high, however, and probably 100,000 will be much nearer the mark.

Two of the largest traction engines in the world and eight steel carriages, for use in the mining district of Siberia are reported to have been shipped from San Leandro, Cal. There has also been planned a carrying service across the desert in China in competition with the trade now done by means of camels, and it is expected to have 50 engines and 3,000 wagons actively engaged within a year.

Prof. Percival Lowell and Prof. Todd have left New York with astronomical material to observe the eclipse of the sun in Algeria. Owing to the fineness of the climate of Algeria, it is a particularly good locality to observe the eclipse. There is an observatory in Algiers, the director of which recently went to Paris to take measurements with M. Løwey in order to observe the eclipse.

The electrophone appears to be rapidly coming into favor in England. Already there are many places in the leading thoroughfares of London, where one can enter, and by the payment of a small fee, be switched on for a quarter of an hour to any of the principal theaters, music halls, etc. Now the Duke and Duchess of York have had their residence, York House, connected by electrophone with the leading theaters, concert halls, and so forth, so that their Royal Highnesses may listen to the entertainments and also enjoy the operatic performance at Covent Garden.
