

SAGITTARIUS: You're about to become filthy rich, you lucky bum. Your ship, and more importantly your Lotto number comes in. Unless something else in your chart makes you a hopeless mope, you'll win $10 million, quit your job, desert your friends, thumb your nose at your in-laws, and buy a decadent villa on the Cote d'Azur. You'll never have to worry about anything, ever again. The single gap in your life will be your need for a personal astrologer.

ARIES: Your Lunar cycle is especially bizarre and twisted this month. The image you present to the outside world, seldom anything to write home about, will be even more pushy and rude. The bad news is that you're entirely unaware you're behaving like a fullblow sociopath. You'll be moving again.

CAPRICORN: Ever wonder why you're here? What, as George Bush says, the life thing is all about? This month, the answer comes in spades. Just as you thought, you're here to suffer unfairly and then die. There's no sense sugar coating the truth...the hammer blows have only begun. Pain and humiliation beyond imagining, friend. Trust me, before it's over, you'll look back on days that only tore your heart out and shredded your dreams and smile. Avoid flirtations and take long naps.

TAURUS: The planetary password for Taureans this month is, Whoopee! Venus and Jupiter conjuncting (as they say) in the House of Fun & Games means that nothing, but nothing, can go wrong. Kiss strangers, bungee jump from parapets, quit your stupid job. Romance, to say nothing of cheap escapades, will be hard to avoid. So will consequences. On the full moon, you'll meet someone wearing a sarong who'll try to sell you baskets.

AQUARIUS: Those born under the sign of the waitress will be footloose and fancy free this month. Travel to exotic places couldn't be more obvious if the planets quick-marched into a neon sign saying, Bon Voyage Charlie! Go ahead and go. Why not? Sure other people can't take fancy vacations but why should that bother you? Maybe you'll catch some tropical disease and your body parts will fall off. That'll be too bad.

GEMINI: Listen very carefully. If you're Gemini, the sign of the traveling sales reps, it's crucial you not leave the house this month. They're waiting for you. All of them. Your mail carrier is in up to his eyebrows and is swabbing your mail with crawfish virus. For God's sake, don't answer the phone. Or, for that matter, eat cottage cheese. Don't say you weren't warned.

PISCES: Your latest horrible mess, the one involving the dancing girls, the duck decoys, and the emergency vehicle will be resolved. You'll probably not go to jail after all. A surprise witness, possibly driving a Rambler, will reveal that none of it would have happened (certainly not the explosions) had it not been for the llamas. Wear pink at the trial.

CANCER: For those born under the sign of the crab (a distant relative of the body louse) the stars point to gain or loss via the written word. The planets, as you may or may not know, are in motion this month, so details are a little tricky to pin down. This much is clear: you will either write a profile of Madonna for National Geographic, or be sued by someone in an Italian suit. Reorganize your Rolodex.

LEO: Time for lions to lash themselves to the mast. Romance doesn't just bloom, it drags you shrieking and thrashing from the sidewalk. Owing to the way-cool alignment between Signis Cuernevaca and Tyrannosaurus Rex, everyone you meet will be wildly attracted to you. Play them like so many trout. During the new moon, avoid squash courts and shops specializing in marital aids.

VIRGO: As usual, life this month will be half-empty. The best you can hope for is slow progress in meaningless things, nitpicking and whining all the while. You'll find yourself asking, Why can't existence measure up? On the bright side, the ugly episode involving a pet is resolved, possibly by gunfire. Your rash clears up, but doesn't go away. You won't actually be fired. Worry and dread, old friends by now, gnaw at your bowels. Eat more ruffage. For an hour or two on the 19th, you'll have a glimmer of false hope.

LIBRA: For Librans, the sign of the unbalanced, June is the month of children. Issues of authority, freedom, and genetic mutations arise. Dr. Spock meets Clockwork Orange. When dealing with apprentice humans, something you should avoid, trust to your instincts and carry a cattle prod. To say you will be tested is to laugh at the nightmarish truth. Under no circumstances play Cowboys and Indians.

SCORPIO: June is a good time for those obsessed with power, secrecy and sex to get back to their spiritual roots. You are driven to question your place in the Cosmic Whatnot. You'll ask yourself, If I'm really master of the universe, can I sell it? If I went away, would space/time know what it had lost? If cold is the absence of heat, what is gelato the absence of? If time doesn't exist, why is yesterday easier to forget than tomorrow? Who do I have to talk to to get laid?
