WALK FOR JUSTICE 1994

American Indian Movement founder Dennis J. Banks and co-founder Mary Jane Wilson will lead a cross-America spiritual WALK which will begin at Alcatraz, just off the coast of San Francisco, on February 11, 1994, and will culminate in Washington, D.C. on July 15th. The main purpose of the WALK will be to call attention to the more than 17-year prison ordeal of the American Indian Movement (AIM) member Leonard Peltier. On July 6, 1993, the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals issued its final denial for a re-trial of the controversial conviction handed down over seventeen years ago before an all-white jury in North Dakota.

It was on June 26, 1975, that unknown assailants opened fire on AIM campgrounds near the Jumping Bull ranch in Oglala, South Dakota. The Oglala firefight lasted nine hours and, when it was all over, one Native security person (Joe Kills Right Stunz) and two agents of the FBI lay dead. Following the largest manhunt in FBI history, Dino Butler, Robert Robideaux and Leonard Peltier were charged with the killing of the agents. Robideaux and Butler were tried in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and found not guilty by reason of justifiable self-defense.

Peltier was tried in North Dakota before an all-white jury but was not allowed to use the self-defense theory. He was also denied exculpatory evidence which pointed to his innocence. This evidence was finally released, under the Freedom of Information Act, from FBI files, seven years after his conviction. In his summation arguments, the U.S. Prosecutor, Lynn Crook, accused Peltier of firing the fatal bullets that killed the agents. The jury found him guilty.

Seventeen years later, on November 9, 1992, the U.S. Prosecutor, still being Lynn Crook, admitted to the reviewing Court: "We don't know who killed the agents." This admission was before the Eighth Circuit on Leonard Peltier's last appeal. YET PELTIER REMAINS IN MAXIMUM SECURITY FEDERAL PRISON!

Not only will the WALK serve to educate the public about this case but to also collect signatures on Petitions and to demand Leonard Peltier's release by Presidential Executive Clemency instanter. Your support of this worthy event is very much appreciated. Questions regarding the WALK FOR JUSTICE 1994 should be directed to:
