

Toxic soldiers

Men and women who trained at the Army's Ft. McClellan say they were poisoned by chemicals there and they want the military to answer for it

"On Cinco de Mayo, 2009, I found myself in the hospital for an emergency gallbladder removal. The doctor said it was like pulling out a black pile of mush."

— LAYNIE ROLAND
PORTLAND RESIDENT AND FORMER ARMY TRAINEE AT FT. MCCLELLAN

Inside

Brian Lindstrom

An interview with the Portland filmmaker about his new project on mothers behind bars

Page 8

Amanda fking Palmer!

How the former Dresden Dolls singer became a crowdsourcing darling

Page 10

Harry Belafonte

A new book profiles his life as a performer and often controversial activist

Page 7