

As I sat on Burnside last night

By Cynthia G.

What is real for me?

I sat on Burnside last night by myself

Wondering where my husband has gone.

As I sat there writing him a letter

It surely never got all the way done.

I have guys talking to me

As I cry myself to sleep.

Always wondering in my mind where he could be.

I figured out a few spots where I thought maybe,

When I sent someone to look for him.

I missed my love by a few hours.

My heart is truly saddened by our time apart.

When all I do is patiently wait with a broken heart.

I got me a new furry friend

Who's taken a lot of abuse.

I've known my furry friend for five years now.

Her name is Anna Mae

And, Oh what a joy she is.

I feel like she knows what I'm going through

Deep from within.

Her heart is broken "because she's away from her momma,"

And well, mine is broken too, once again.

By a guy who says he loves me.

Well I'm not too sure.

He's got the title husband,

But his actions don't describe him.

He's supposed to be my protector,

But he's nowhere to found.

Instead I have a projector,

Of memories and spoken and unspoken words.

I love him so much,

And I always ask myself, I wonder why.

What did I do to deserve this mental and emotional abuse he gives me?

Seems like he doesn't care.

He's still not back,

And I feel like I'm having a heart attack.

So many guys try to move on in his place.

But still I'm sitting here waiting for my hero,

My heart throb, my soulmate,

To come home.

Wishing and praying, God please let it be soon.

My hero's my husband Donald Edward Grub.

Where the hell are you?

My heart yearns for his love.

Maybe someday I'll say the right thing to make him want to stay.

Or maybe it'll be next time, he'll once again leave me on Burnside,

To hopefully make it through another day.

Thank you God for watching my back,

And loving me from far away.

Portland Harbor Proposed Cleanup Plan and Public Comment Period

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is seeking formal public comment on the Proposed Cleanup Plan for the Portland Harbor Superfund Site in Portland, Oregon from June 9, 2016 until August 8, 2016.

The Portland Harbor Superfund Site is located on the Lower Willamette River approximately between the Broadway Bridge and Sauvie Island. This area is contaminated with many hazardous substances, including polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs), dioxin, pesticides and heavy metals. EPA has determined that human health and environmental risks posed by the Portland Harbor site are high enough to take action under the Superfund Law. After many years of studying the Site, the EPA is releasing a Proposed Cleanup Plan.

EPA's Proposed Cleanup Plan for the Portland Harbor Superfund Site presents EPA's preferred alternative or option to lower risks to people and the environment from contamination in the lower Willamette River and its river banks. Alternative 1, EPA's preferred alternative, reduces risks to human health and the environment to acceptable levels by dredging or capping 291 acres of contaminated sediments and 19,472 lineal feet of contaminated river bank, followed by 23 years of monitored natural recovery. The preferred alternative also includes disposal of dredged sediment in an on-site confined disposal facility and upland landfills. This alternative will cost about $746 million and take 7 years of construction in the river. This alternative will address waste that poses the greatest threat to people and the environment through construction and relies on monitored natural recovery to continue to reduce remaining contaminant concentrations to acceptable levels.

Public comment is critical and EPA believes the best cleanup plans are developed and implemented with the support of a well-informed community. The public is encouraged to review and submit comments on the Proposed Cleanup Plan to EPA during the formal 60-day public comment period beginning on June 9, 2016 and ending on August 8, 2016.

EPA will host official Public Meetings to overview the Proposed Plan and take oral and written public comments.

You are invited to attend the official EPA Public meetings below to be held in Portland, Oregon:
