

Nights in the Park

by Maddy Brown-Clark

I remember the nights
Sleeping in the park
Underneath the sky so dark
Everything I had left in the world
Was bundled up next to me.
Some slept together to keep warm
On nights of human misery
Some lay awake making plans
Some warmed their hands
Over a fire in a garbage can
Some wondered all night long
What would happen at the break of dawn.

Good Tree

by Dave T.

Good tree good tree
There must be some light in ye Wisdom's daughter you have been called Will wisdom's light be seen
As well as wisdom's dark
In the withering and the fall
In the fantasy and in the sleep
Do the subjects and their anticipations weep?

Is this whole damn head made out of wood?
The bead the brain
The bubble that calls upon itself all the ocean troubles
The gall and its root
The liver and the spleen
And a wandering snake that keeps it all lean and clean.

Chapter One/untitled

by Daniel Cox

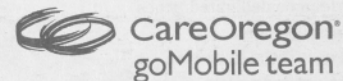

It started out as an easy gait.
The open gates, laid shut.
Lime light material remains unfocused, and obscured.
Strange days are upon us.

Did you serve in the Armed Forces and are experiencing or at risk of becoming homeless?
