VENDOR PROFILE Clint Lewis

BY SAVANNAH DIMARCO
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

After exploring the British Virgin Islands, trekking across the United States, and working for a traveling circus (among many other adventures), Georgia native Clint Lewis recently arrived in Portland, carrying with him a million tales from nights and days on the road.

"I was headed to Colorado when everything fell out from under me," said Clint, who sells Street

Roots

newspapers.

"But it's just a minute, you know, I'll be there in a couple

weeks and then I can get on.

This

paper

thing's

really

helping me out.

It's putting

a little jingle in my pocket.

... It won't be but a minute. I'll be back up and go."

When asked what he likes about Portland, Clint said, "Just about everything." While he enjoys the City of Roses, the most captivating place he has visited is Road Town, British Virgin Islands.

"Road Town is the old British town where the pirates used to come in," Clint said. "Remember Blackbeard? Blackbeard used to park his boat in Road Town. And he would get out, and the reason that they welcomed 'em - or any of 'em - is 'cause they brought the loot."

Long after visiting Road Town, Clint was traveling through Susanville,

Calif., and noticed a carnival. Almost immediately, he decided to work for the traveling crew. It was an experience filled with many humorous

moments.

Clint plans to stay in Portland until he has saved enough

money to visit

his son in

Colorado,

whom he has not seen in about two years.

A New Year

By Eileen Vizenor

I love this time of year.

For it is a new start.

Refresh is my mind set.

Leaving the past year behind me.

Renewing my self-esteem.

Regrouping my thoughts.

Recharging my body, positively.

Restarting by moving forward.
