

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Dayton, Oregon.

THE SEALING QUESTION

The Bill Passed Its Second Reading in Commons.

NO NEW QUESTIONS ARE RAISED

The Only Changes, as Compared With the First Act, Were Introduced at Canada's Suggestion.

London, June 20.—The Behring sea bill passed its second reading in the house of commons today.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

THE GOULD ESTATE.

A Report to Be Made on the Expenses of Administration.

SHINGLE MEN UNITED

An Association of Shippers Formed at Seattle.

MATERIAL FOR EUROPE.

A Pittsburg Company to Supply Aluminum Plates.

Pittsburg, June 19.—A Pittsburg company will supply material for the construction of torpedo boats for foreign countries and other military contrivances in use in England, Germany and France.

"We have contracted to supply aluminum for the building of second-class torpedo boats and for making army canteens and other parts of soldiers' equipment. It is desired by European governments to lighten the amount of baggage which the soldier must carry. At present his baggage is much heavier than that carried by an American soldier. The aluminum torpedo boats will be carried on the larger war vessels and will be raised and lowered by machinery. The boats are cigar-shaped and will be from 50 to 100 feet in length. They are to be constructed entirely from aluminum except their machinery. Each boat will weigh when ready for use from twenty-five to seventy tons which is only one-half as much as the same sized boats built of steel would weigh. They will be able to navigate both under water and on the surface. Foreign governments are doing everything possible to lessen the burdens of their infantrymen. We will make canteens for the soldiers that will weigh but one-third as much as the old-style canteen. Other parts of an European soldier's equipment that has heretofore been made of iron will be replaced by aluminum in the next few years. The work of re-equipping is to be pushed rapidly and will result in relieving infantrymen of many pounds of burden. Our contracts are merely to furnish the foreign military contractors with aluminum plates which they will work into such shapes as they desire. The work will keep our plant busy for the rest of this year.

"The amount of the contracts is understood to be about $700,000. They are in the nature of trial orders."

THE GERMAN AMBASSADOR.

Said to Have Made the Embassy the Laughing-Stock of Berlin.

Washington, June 19.—Complaints have reached here from the American colony in Berlin concerning the conduct of General Theodore Kuylen, the United States ambassador to Berlin. It is said that the New Jersey statesman has not only violated the rules of the service and the principles of Jeffersonian simplicity, but has gone so far as to make the embassy the laughing-stock not only of the American colony but of the Germans as well. His latest innovation has been a regal coat of arms, which he had expressly built. He drives through the streets of Berlin with two funkies balancing their anatomies on a limited foot board, the driver on a tripod, seated on the American flag, occasionally spread over his seat, with all sorts of mysterious crests and emblems, the meaning of which must remain a Chinese mystery to an American voter.

The general has also resurrected an old uniform which he uses instead of the traditional evening dress, and the German officials are in a ferment over the discovery that it does not represent his present rank in the regular army of the United States.

INTERNATIONAL GAMES.

Challenge Sent From England to the American Universities.

London, June 19.—The challenge sent by the athletic clubs of Oxford and Cambridge universities to the athletic clubs of Yale and Harvard are due to reach New York June 20. One copy was sent to the captain of the Yale Athletic Club and another to the captain of the Harvard club. The challenge suggests an autumn meeting, which may come before or after the events already agreed upon by the London Athletic Club and the New York Athletic Club, as may hereafter be deemed wise. The challenge is sent subject to all preliminaries being satisfactorily arranged. It was suggested that the programme contain the following events: Flat races, 100-yard dash, quarter-mile run, half-mile run, one-mile run and three miles run; hurdle races, 100 yards, one according to English rules and one according to American rules; high jump, long jump, hammer throw, and weight putting.

A Topheavy Cruiser.

San Francisco, June 19.—The naval reserve has just returned from its annual cruise on the United States cruiser Olympia, and an evening paper says that the citizen marines discovered that the Olympia is so topheavy that both her officers and men are afraid of her. She is said to have behaved in an alarming manner on her trip to Santa Cruz de Tenerife, that she comparatively smooth summer sea, she rolled badly, showing, it is stated, a lack of stability and a topheaviness that is ominous of disaster in case of heavy seas, presaging the fate of that ill-fated British warship, the Captain, which turned turtle in the bay of Biscay and went down with all hands.

Filed a Writ of Error.

Washington, June 19.—Counsel for E. R. Chapman, the New York broker indicted for refusal to answer questions propounded by the senate investigating committee, today filed with the clerk of the United States supreme court a writ of error to bring up for review the decision of the district court of appeals, refusing to grant a petition for a writ of prohibition to prevent a case being tried by Judge Cole in the district court. It is supposed that the supreme court that the effect of today's proceedings will be to stay the trial until the supreme court acts on the motion.

The Telephone Patents.

Boston, June 17.—A decision of the United States court, reversing a decision in the circuit court, and ordering a new trial in the case of the United States vs. the Bell Telephone Company, as assignees of the Emil Berliner patents, was handed down late this afternoon. The suit was on a bill in equity praying that the patents issued November 17, 1891, to the American Bell Telephone Company, as assignee of Berliner, in all things be nullified, repealed and decreed absolutely null. The lower court sustained the prayers.

Ministry Threatens to Resign.

Vienna, June 19.—The semi-official Freedmanblatt today announces that the ministry for Austria, presided over by Prince Alfred Windischgratz, has decided to resign directly the German party succeeds from the coalition, which is expected to take place at any moment.

The Equitable Fire Insurance.

New York, June 19.—The World will say tomorrow: A meeting of the directors of the Equitable Fire Insurance Company was held yesterday, and it was unanimously resolved to reorganize the company. It is understood the directors agreed personally to assume payment of outstanding losses. Mr. Staples, who was elected president, it is said, will become the principal backer of the new company.

A Credit to the Country.

San Francisco, June 20.—City officials are filing with Registrar Broderick their estimates of what it will cost the various departments during the next fiscal year. Superintendent of Streets Ashworth filed a modest request for $1,485,923 to properly conduct his office. Of this amount $32,500 is for salaries, and the rest goes for improvement of streets and public squares. The fight for good streets recently inaugurated by the wheelmen is at the bottom of the whole thing, and if this amount is allowed San Francisco cyclists will have the best streets in the country to ride over.

A Raise at Joliet.

Chicago, June 20.—The Illinois Steel Company has given notice that on July 1, a 10 per cent increase will be made in the wages of the Joliet works, except those working on a sliding scale.

THE SEALING QUESTION

The Bill Passed Its Second Reading in Commons.

NO NEW QUESTIONS ARE RAISED

The Only Changes, as Compared With the First Act, Were Introduced at Canada's Suggestion.

London, June 20.—The Behring sea bill passed its second reading in the house of commons today.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

THE SEALING QUESTION

The Bill Passed Its Second Reading in Commons.

NO NEW QUESTIONS ARE RAISED

The Only Changes, as Compared With the First Act, Were Introduced at Canada's Suggestion.

London, June 20.—The Behring sea bill passed its second reading in the house of commons today.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

Mr. Richard Webster said that while he disagreed with the motion that the bill be referred to a select committee, he thought the government ought to give as much information as possible to the house before the bill went to ordinary committee.

LESS THAN EXPECTED

No Improvement in Customs and Revenue Receipts.

DISBURSEMENTS ARE THE SAME

The Present Deficit, However, Is Expected to Be Reduced by Cutting Off Expenditures.

Washington, June 18.—The treasury receipts from customs and internal revenue so far during June show an improvement over last month, while the disbursements are practically the same. The receipts from sugar importations are surprisingly low, and expected large increases from whisky withdrawal have not materialized. For the first half of the present month the receipts from customs amount to $6,294,735, and from internal revenues $5,197,085, making the total receipts from customs for the 11-13 months of the fiscal year $146,843,697, and from internal revenue sources $138,954,163. During the last five months receipts from customs and internal revenue, June being estimated were as follows, the first figures indicating the customs:

January, $17,816,916; $9,059,964; February, $13,354,691; $8,860,460; March, $14,929,739; $9,850,977; April, $12,453,086; $10,648,580; May, $13,000,000; $11,000,000; totals, $155,618,963; $143,757,077.

The present deficit of $48,400,950, however, is likely to be reduced by cutting off expenditures about $5,000,000 for the full fiscal year. Notwithstanding this showing for the year's operations, there is no expectation from any source of an extra session of congress meeting in December. Today the gold reserve is about $99,500,000, and the available cash balance of nearly $184,000,000, which is regarded as ample to meet all ordinary demands.

The spirit of confidence and security which pervades the treasury department at this time is largely due to the provision in the last bond contract obliging the syndicate to protect the gold in the treasury from withdrawals for export. The ability of the syndicate to carry out this provision has been amply demonstrated during the last several months, when the rate of exchange has at times ruled far above the export per cent. This obligation cannot be discharged until December next. At the present time the syndicate owes the government about $7,500,000 on its contract, and while the entire issue of bonds has been taken in London, deliveries will be made only as fast as gold is deposited.

WEEKLY SALMON REPORT.

Fishing on Lower Columbia Continued Good Last Week.

Astoria, Or., June 17.—The Astorian's weekly salmon report says in part: "Fishing on the Lower Columbia has continued good during the past week. Up to Wednesday returns at all the canneries were good, fish averaging fifteen to the boat with an average weight of twenty-nine pounds. Since then, however, they have continued to fall off, and the day's returns since were the duldest for several weeks. Traps are not running at all well. Stealing continues to improve, and will no doubt show good results from now until the end of the season. The chinooks are all of a splendid color, with flesh plump and firm. The middle river canneries are averaging 150 cases of fish per day. At the cascades and dalles work still continues very slack, and nearly all that is being done is being accomplished by seines. Bluebacks are gradually beginning to appear in the river, but cannot attain anything like the ordinary proportions before the close of the season. Steelheads are showing up a little better every day. Prices on Columbia river salmon continue to hold firm everywhere, with increased demands notably in the extreme Eastern centers. British Columbia canners report no prospect of a catch till July. The few now being packed on the Fraser are utilized for cold storage."

An Expensive Work Begun.

New York, June 17.—Work has at last begun on the North river bridge. Men are now sounding for a foundation at Garden and Twelfth streets, Hoboken. They will dig until they reach solid rock. It is supposed to extend the anchorage westward from Garden street, cutting through the heights. The anchorage of the cable will be at Bloomfield and Twelfth streets. Retaining walls will cost between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000.

Cannot Tax Oregon Grains.

San Francisco, June 17.—Attorney Ford, of the board of harbor commissioners, has rendered an opinion to the effect that the commissioners have no right under the law to impose anything saving of a tax on outside grain. The opinion was the result of an attempt made by Commissioner Conlon to tax Oregon flour and wheat which came into this port.

Practice For the Naval Reserve.

San Francisco, June 14.—The United States cruiser Olympia left this evening for Santa Cruz, having on board a battalion of the naval reserve. The officers objected to the cruise, declaring that their ship should not be turned into an excursion boat; but when the naval reserve officers appealed to Secretary Herbert, he made the desired order.

Across the Atlantic in a Sloop.

New York, June 15.—Robert McCallum, the daring young Scotchman, who will make the attempt to cross the Atlantic in a 23-foot sloop, has begun his perilous journey. His only companion is his black Scotch terrier "Jack." The start was made at 11:35 A. M. If the lad completes the journey, which he expects to do, in forty-five days, he will receive $5,000 and a gold medal.

San Francisco's School Census.

San Francisco, June 17.—The school census of San Francisco shows there are 34,968 boys and 34,546 girls attending the schools of this city.

PORTLAND MARKETS.

An advance in all grades of flour took effect today. Strawberries are scarce and very firm. New California peaches are in the market. Eggs are firm, and poultry market is in poor shape, with an over-supply on hand. Batter is firmer with the surplus pretty well worked off, and better prices may be looked for some time next week.

Wheat Market.—The local wheat market is dull, and that tells the whole story. Quotations are more or less nominal, as follows: Walla Walla, $1.10; Valley, $0.95 per bushel.

Produce Market.—Flour—Portland, Salem, Cascadia and Dayton, are quoted at $2.75 per barrel; Goldport, $2.50; Snoqualmie, $2.50; Benton county, $2.75; Graham, $2.30; Superior, $2.50.

Oats—Good white are quoted weak, at $2.25; milling, $2.00; gray, $2.00. Rolled oats are quoted as follows: Hops $5.75; @6.00; barrels, $6.00; @6.25; cases, $5.75.

Hay—Timothy, $9.50 per ton; chest, $5; clover, $5; oats, $6; wheat, $6. BARLEY—Feed barley, $2.00 per cental; brewing, $0.65 per cental, according to quality.

MILK—Fancy creamery is quoted at 11¢; fancy dairy, 10¢; fair, 9¢; good, 7¢; @8¢; common, 6¢; @5¢ per pot.

POTATOES—Weak; top quotations are 25¢ per sack. Onions—New California, $1.25 @1.50 per cental.

POULTRY—Chickens, old, $2.25 per dozen; young, $1.25 @2.50 per dozen; ducks, $3.00 @3.50; geese, $4.00 @5.00; turkeys, live, 10¢ per pound; dressed, 12¢ per pound.

EGGS—Oregon, are quoted at 12¢ per dozen. CHEESE—Oregon full cream, 8¢ @10¢ per pound.

ORANGE VEGETABLES—Cabbage, 1 1