PERISHED TO A MAN.

Brave Party of Texans Fighting for Cuba Killed in a Hot Fight.

New York, Dec. 29.—A special to the World Star company, of the Pacific Army of West Cuba, consisting of fifteen Texas sharpshooters, perished to a man after battling more than five hours against vastly superior Spanish forces in Pinar del Rio province, killing double their own number and wounding probably as many more. Havana officials are jubilant, passengers say, over the news of this victory.

A Cuban band was observed near Pinar del Rio city Thursday morning, and General Melquiés sent two squads of cavalry to attack it. After a running fight, the band, which proved to be composed of the fifteen Texans, was chased into a "trottoir," a bit of hummock having one opening. The Texans, seeing they were in a hole, retreated to the further end and fortified themselves behind some boulders. The Spanish troopers dismounted and surrounded them, pouring in a fire from both sides. The brave Texans replied and kept up the fight more than five hours. By that time, six of the fifteen had been killed and four wounded, while twenty-five Spaniards had hit the dust and ten or more were wounded.

A flag of truce was sent in by the Spanish, and the Texans were called on to surrender, but the Americans refused, shouting, "We remember Malcos." This infuriated the Spaniards, and they fought with renewed ferocity. Twice they charged, but the rapid firing of the brave little band drove them back. By getting on a high ridge behind the Texans' position, the Spaniards were enabled to kill all but two of those left. Those two gallantly continued to fight and held off the enemy an hour longer. Then, overcome by thirst and enfeebled by loss of blood, flowing from a dozen wounds, they were cut to pieces by the Spanish, who finally dashed up as the Texans cried, "Viva Cuba libre."

ESCAPED LYNCHING.

A Murderer Owes His Safety to Governor Stone.

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 29.—The presence of Governor Stone at the county jail tonight probably saved Tom Lanahan, colored, from being lynched. At 8:30 o'clock, a mob of fully 1,000, whites and blacks, surrounded the jail, threatening to avenge the most revolting murder ever committed in Jefferson City. Early this morning the body of a 14-year-old negro girl, Millie Gaines, was found in a yard back of Joseph Stampff's furniture store. The child had been outraged, her skull crushed and her body mutilated in a horrible manner. Suspicion pointed to Tom Lanahan, and he was arrested. In the basement of the furniture store incriminating evidence was found.

The news spread over the city, and by night there was great excitement. When a lynching was finally threatened, Governor Stone, accompanied by Mayor Jordan, and Assistant Attorney General Jordan, went to the jail and Governor Stone spoke to the mob. He appealed to them to leave the premises of the crime to the state. As citizens of the capital of the state, he implored them not to permit, in the very shadow of the capital, such a crime as was contemplated. When the enraged men were finally induced to withdraw, the prisoner was removed to the state penitentiary. Armed guards from the state army assisted in the transfer of the prisoner.

Henry, the millionaire contractor, today confirmed the report that he had secured the contract to build the approaches to the Great Northern railroad's tunnel through the Cascade mountains, and that men were already on their way to commence preliminary work. Mr. Henry refused to state the amount of the contract. It will take about six months to do the work, and then everything will be ready to commence on the tunnel, which will be one of the greatest engineering feats known in railway history. The tunnel will be 2 1/2 miles long, and will reduce the altitude of the road 1,000 feet.

RETURN OF ANDRADE

Venezuelans Satisfied With Boundary Treaty.

MINISTER DECLINED TO TALK

No Indications of Coming Trouble in President Crespo's Republic—Lawyer Storror's Views.

New York, Dec. 29.—Senator Jose Andrade, Venezuelan minister to the United States, accompanied by James J. Storror, counsel for Venezuela before the United States boundary commission, arrived in this city this afternoon on the steamer Caracas and left for Washington tonight. When the steamer arrived at her pier, Mr. Andrade was met by the Venezuelan consul and some of the attaches of the office. When asked concerning the reports which have been printed in reference to the boundary treaty being not acceptable to the Venezuelan government, the minister said: "I have written and telegraphed all I have to say, and I understand it has been published in your papers. I cannot say anything more on this question."

He was asked if it was true that he had been empowered by President Crespo to signify the acceptance of the treaty, and he replied: "That is a matter I cannot discuss." He said there was no sign of disturbance in Venezuela. Everything was very peaceful, and he did not anticipate any trouble when the congress would meet. When pressed to say more about the treaty, he showed the reporters a copy of a Venezuelan paper, which he said expressed his views on the matter.

This newspaper, the Venezuela Herald, had several articles on the treaty, and the following is an extract from one of them: "Minister Andrade is going to Washington and takes with him a copy of the agreement. It is, in all essential particulars, the same treaty offered by Venezuela forty years ago. Under the fifty-year clause, the only territory which Great Britain will have in the settlements between the Essequibo and Poornan rivers. By the fifty-year clause we exclude Great Britain from the Orinoco country and the Cayuli river, which is the portion of the country that Venezuela has been especially desirous of keeping. Attacks have been made on the government, but they are based on no solid argument, and it surprised us not a little to hear such rumors concerning the boundary question after everything has been settled. The United States has been the friend and representative of Venezuela, or to put it exactly, through its friend, the United States, Venezuela has negotiated the treaty."

Mr. Storror was also disinclined to talk of the boundary question, but said the treaty was satisfactory to Venezuela. He said there were a couple of correspondents who attacked the treaty in the papers, but to use his own words, "they went off half-cooked." Mr. Storror obtained the people are well satisfied with the treaty, and considered it about the best arrangement that could be made. He said public feeling toward the Americans was most kindly, and he referred to the letter written by President Crespo to President Cleveland thanking him for the interest American had taken in the Venezuelan matter.

On the New Orleans Levee.

New Orleans, Dec. 29.—John Hurt, a Missouri miner on a trip around the world, was robbed of $7,500 in German money, a collection of rare coins, deeds to mining property in Butte, Mont., and a gold nugget worth $200 by several colored women on the levee today. For three hours Hurt was on the verge of insanity, but the police succeeded in restoring his lost valuables and his mental equilibrium and locked up the thieves as well. Hurt has recently visited his family in Germany, and made a tour through the South African mining country. He always carried his valuables in a leather belt. This morning, while making a tour of the levee, he was decoyed into a basement and quickly relieved of his pouch and its contents. Hurt furnished a description of his assailants, and the police led the rest. The old German wept for joy on recovering his treasure.

Rivers Is All Right.

New York, Dec. 29.—At the headquarters of the Cuban junta today General Estrada Palma stated that the Cuban army was now as strong as it ever had been, and the Cubans have full faith in General Rivera, who succeeded Maceo in command.

"General Rivera," said General Palma, "has 6,000 armed men, with provisions enough to last six months in his mountain stronghold." "There will be no general laying down of arms on the part of the Cubans, such as was reported by General Weyler. As for Dr. Zertucha's charge that Maceo was driven to death by despair, by reason of non-support from his Cuban allies in this country, it is simply infamous and unworthy of contradiction."

Allentown, Pa., Dec. 28.

Five persons were injured and killed this afternoon in a grade crossing accident. A passenger train on the Central railroad of New Jersey struck a trolley car. J. W. Ware, aged 49, the motorman, was instantly killed. Four people were injured. None of the injuries are serious. The locomotive struck the trolley-car at the front platform, carrying the motorman a distance of fifty feet. The others were hurt by flying fragments of the car.

San Francisco, Dec. 29.—While driving over the San Bruno road leading to the Warren & Malley quarry, in Mateo county, shortly after 9 o'clock last evening, Frank Scott and John Myron drove over a bank into a ravine. The horse also fell upon him, and his companion was compelled to go to a house near by to obtain assistance.

WRECK ON A TRESTLE.

An Alabama Passenger Train Flung Down One Hundred Feet.

Memphis, Dec. 29.—A special to the Commercial Appeal, from Birmingham, Ala., says: "Flashed in human form wrecked the Birmingham Mineral passenger train No. 4 at Cahaba river bridge, twenty-seven miles from here, at 7:30 this morning, and twenty-two lives were lost. That number of bodies have been recovered, and further search may swell the list of dead. The wreck is regarded as almost certainly accomplished by the removal of a rail on the middle span of the trestle. This derailed the train, which caused it to fall down the two spans and precipitated it into the river, 110 feet below. The wreck was the worst that has ever occurred in the state, and the survivors are so few and so badly hurt, that they are unable to give any detailed description of how it happened.

It is not known and may never be ascertained just how many passengers were on the train. Most of them were miners and residents of mining towns in this district, who had round trip tickets, and were returning to their homes along the line of the Birmingham Mineral road. Conductor Kennel, who probably knew better than anybody else, said no more passengers were aboard, is dead. It is thought, however, there were not exceeding twenty-five or thirty. Only one passenger purchased a ticket at Birmingham.

The railroad company tonight furnished the following list of dead: James Bolling, of Guthrie, Frank Southern, express messenger; E. K. White, of Birmingham; engineer; George Carney, of Birmingham; flagman; R. Webb, of Birmingham; Bruce C. Phillips, of Blocton; I. W. Martin, of Brookwood, Ala.; Mrs. Henry Handberg and two children, of Birmingham; E. H. Blount, of Birmingham; colored; Miss Ada Powers, of Blocton; Dr. L. N. Powers, of Blocton; Mrs. Emma Powers and two children, of Blocton; M. R. Little, of Blocton; Mr. Gardner, of Blocton; Miss Gardner, of Blocton; one unidentified body, supposed to be E. Struther, colored porter. Seven were injured.

The mineral trains operate over the Southern railway's Briarfield, Blocton & Birmingham branch, under a contract arrangement. Six miles south of Guernsey is the Cahaba river, a shallow mountain stream, which has a depth at this time of about three or four feet. This river is spanned by an iron bridge, with a wooden trestle on each side. Its entire length is 800 feet, and the height of the span, where the wreck occurred, is 110 feet. The bridge was built only four years ago, and was regarded as a very safe structure. The main span and the span just beyond it, both made of iron, gave way and precipitated the entire train into the river. The engine landed on its side, almost at right angles with the track. The cars piled upon each other through the main span.

The entire wreck took fire soon after it was derailed, and was rapidly burned to the water level. Nine persons alone escaped alive from all who went down, and several of them were probably dead. The first news was brought to Birmingham, a station four miles from the Cahaba river, by a farmer, who said that while passing near the place, he heard a crash. Going nearer, he saw the two spans of the bridge broken out. He then discovered the burning wreckage in the shallow water below. He saw the groans of the wounded and dying, but without waiting to see further, he rode on his back to Harpersville as rapidly as he could, where the operator telegraphed to Birmingham and Blocton for relief.

HAPPY REUNION.

A Husband Returns to His Family After a Separation of Eleven Years. Shelbyville, Ind., Dec. 29.—Eleven years ago John Crim went to his home in Flat Rock from the village store and informed his wife that he had made an effort to secure something for their children for Christmas, but not having the money the merchant refused and the little ones would have to do without any presents. His wife could not bear to grieve, saying she had a few trinkets laid away for the children, and that they could get along until the saw mill started up. About midnight the husband kissed his wife as she slept. He also wrote a note asking his wife not to worry and to await his return. Nothing was heard of him until last night, when a well-dressed man walked into the store at Flat Rock. It was John Crim. He asked the direction to Henry Crim's residence. A boy of 12 years stepped forward with the remark that he would show him to his mother's house. Crim recognized his child and clasped him to his breast and almost carried him to the house. Crim had been in British Columbia for ten years engaged in mining and had amassed a fortune. The reunion of the family was a happy one.

RAKED BY SOLID SHOT

Thrilling Adventures of the Steamer Three Friends.

CHASED BY SPANISH WARSHIPS

The Filibuster Fired Upon and Disabled an Armed Coaster—Loaded Her Men and Supplies.

New York, Dec. 29.—A World special from Key West says: The lone-star flag of Cuba has met the red and yellow banner of Castle upon the sea. The sharpnel, shell and rifle volleys of a brave filibuster have made answer to the roar of Spanish twelve-pounders, and have gained for Cuba Libre the first victory on the ocean.

The filibustering steamer Three Friends called from Fernandina, December 13, carrying a valuable cargo of munitions of war for the Cuban insurgents. After eluding the vigilance of the United States warships and revenue cutters, and dodging every sail upon the ocean, the little steamer, with about fifty men, was within hailing distance of Cuba, on the sixth night out. Surprised, trapped and fired upon, she threw shot into the Spanish naval coaster, frightened off a big gunboat, and escaped from a swift cruiser, steering out to sea.

The Three Friends landed her cargo on the border of the great Zapata swamp. Not before in Cuba's struggle for liberty has the flag of Spain been fired upon at sea. No other filibuster, after having been attacked by the enemy, has stood by her guns and fulfilled her perilous mission. The account of the history-making trip is thrilling in the extreme. As soon as the enemy was sighted the captain, undaunted, declared he would land at San Juan, where he had been ordered, if he had to go through hell to do it. He then told his men they would have to fight. They broke open the rifle and cartridge boxes and soon the entire party were armed. Sharpshooter Gorman gathered his riflemen along the stern rail upon the upper deck. Major Morales was in charge. A flash from the coaster and another in quick succession and a solid shot splashed in the water several rods from the vessel. The Three Friends was under full steam endeavoring to escape from the Spanish cruiser. They were now about 800 yards apart. Then the Spaniard fired for the third time, falling a few rods astern of the filibuster, but in a direct line.

"Use the Hotchkiss," commanded Major Morales. Gunner Michael Welsh heard the command with joy and called out to Captain O'Brien to swing the ship around. In a minute the filibuster was almost broadside to the coaster. The latter boomed forth again, but the shot did not clear away before the Hotchkiss in the prow of the Three Friends belched forth and sent a shell squarely over the engines. The shell did not burst, but the Spaniards seemed paralyzed with fear.

Several men on the lower deck opened fire with rifles, and this was followed by a rattling volley from the line of men on the upper deck. The sharpnel fired from the Hotchkiss ended the fight, as the Spaniards sailed away, firing rockets calling for assistance. The call for assistance was promptly answered, for while the filibuster was swinging into position to allow the Hotchkiss to play upon the enemy, a gunboat double the size of the coaster appeared on the port side. She opened fire with heavy guns, but did not have the range.

Gunner Welsh rammed another sharpnel into the gun on the prow and yanked the lanyard. The shell flew straight for the gunboat and burst directly over her. It was answered by a still heavier thunder from the gunboat returning shell for shell. The shot from the Spaniard disabled two of the landing boats of the filibuster, but did not do other damage. The Hotchkiss was again loaded with sharpnel, and the next discharge struck the coaster amidships. Then the Three Friends put on steam, leaving the warship, silently disabled, but, at all events, silent and defeated, out of sight behind a point of land.

As the cargo of the Three Friends was being landed, the Spanish coast patrol came up and a fierce fight ensued between them and the Cubans sent by General Gomes to escort the cargo into his camp. After two hours of fighting, the Spaniards were driven off and the cargo was landed and safely carried into the interior.

The vessel then lay to for several days in a secluded cove and started for Florida last Monday. She was pursued by several gunboats, and a ball from one of them tore a hole in her bulwark. A barrel of oil on the furnace fire soon ran up the steam, and the fast craft swept away.

Charged With Smuggling.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 28.—Harry Mansur, the American who was arrested several weeks ago by the Mexican customs officials at Tia Juana for alleged infraction of the laws governing the free zone, has been released by the Ensenada authorities and is again at his home on this side. His release was obtained through the intervention of Hon. Anthony Godbe, American vice-consul, and a cash bail was obtained, which allowed Mansur to leave the country.

Charged With Smuggling.

Mansur said today that his case was temporarily settled, and he did not expect it to come up again for six months or a year. It is probable the cash bail will be quietly accepted and no further action taken, especially as Mansur's infraction of the law was slight. Mansur's wife's family lives at Rosario, about two miles south of the free zone. Mansur had often visited his home, taking his team and paying no attention to the law, being an old resident and acquainted with the officials. But a new administration of the Tia Juana custom-house, Senator Motavasco, caused Mansur to be arrested for smuggling a horse into the country, and imposed a heavy fine upon him. Failing to pay the fine, Mansur was arrested and sent to Ensenada to be dealt with by the higher authorities. Since that time until a day or so ago he had been in jail.

Patrick Hanley, the conductor, managed to save Bernier from the mob, and then a riot call was sent to the Maxwell street station. The police took charge of the motorman and conductor and locked them up.
