More than 1,000 revolutionists and refugees have fled from Guatemala to Mexico, dreading the vengeance of Barrios. The refugees know their property will be confiscated, as the government has issued a decree to that effect. Some people took the precaution to deposit their valuables with the British consul at Quetzaltenango.

Near Austin, Tex., in broad, open daylight, the southbound cannonball train on the International & Great Northern railroad was held up by four men and robbed. The conductor of the train was shot by the robbers while resisting them, but fortunately was not seriously wounded. One of the passengers had his shirt collar carried away by a pistol ball that was aimed at his neck, and another received a bullet wound in the hand. The passengers were robbed of about $300 in money. The bandits attempted to rifle the safe in the express car, but were unsuccessful.

OREGON ROADS TRIUMPH.

Concessions on Both Sides, But the O. R. & N. and O. S. L. Are Victorious.

Salt Lake, Oct. 20.—President Mohler, accompanied by Traffic Manager Campbell and General Superintendent O'Brien, left for Portland this evening after a highly successful conference with the Union Pacific and Short Line officials. Since the arrival of the O. R. & N. party on Saturday, the negotiations have been in progress, and today a complete understanding was reached, and as a result the through-car service from Chicago to Portland will be resumed at once.

The fast-freight line of the Union Pacific to Portland by way of Sacramento will be taken off, and the tariff relations existing with the Oregon road before the cancellation of September 23 will be fully restored. While concessions have been made on both sides, the net result is conceded to be a victory for the Short Line and the O. R. & N., which have stood together in the fight.

The Oregon gateway is to remain permanently open, and the use of the Rio Grande Western and its Eastern connection by Ogden shippers, if they desire it, is therefore assured. The conflict which has now been brought to a close arose from the opening of the Ogden gateway and the admission of rivals of the Union Pacific to the territory tributary to the Short Line and the O. R. & N. and the agreement that the condition thus brought about shall continue is regarded as a triumph for the diplomacy of the two latter companies.

President Mohler's contention, as expressed here today, was that all connecting lines should be treated alike, and this concession the Union Pacific has been compelled to make. It was also forced to yield to other conditions exacted by Mr. Mohler. Its officials had become very tired of the decrease of business caused by its rupture with the Navigation company and the Short Line, and seemed glad to be in a position to surrender and thereby renew its hold on the traffic of the Northwest.

In the matter of the division of freight charges, it is understood that the Union Pacific secured concessions, the details of which are for the present withheld. The terms of the agreement insure the continuance in the Northwest field of agents of Eastern companies benefitted by the opening of the Ogden gateway. Disclosures during the conference add strength to the belief that the reorganization of the Union Pacific will not result in the abandonment of the independent organizations of the Short Line and the O. R. & N.

This ends the long and interesting fight that has been waged since last spring between the Union Pacific and the Oregon Short Line over the opening of the Ogden gateway, and from the conclusions reached and announced, it is quite evident that the Short Line, aided by the O. R. & N., has gained its point, and that the Ogden gateway will be kept open hereafter in addition to the through service over the Union Pacific, which the new agreement restores. This is a victory of decided advantage to Portland, as it keeps open to the Utah-Colored line this Northwest territory, which previous to the little unpleasantness, gave all their business to the Southern Pacific and advertised California to the exclusion of Oregon and the Northwest.

FATAL BUGGY RIDE.

Horses, Vehicle and Occupants Fell From Grade.

Marshfield, Or., Oct. 20.—This afternoon about 4 o'clock, ex-Judge Nosler, his wife and daughter and his son's wife and baby while driving from Myrtle Point to Coquille City, met with a terrible accident. They had reached a point about halfway to Coquille City, and were driving around a high, rocky point, when they met another team. Judge Nosler attempted to back his horses to one side of the road to allow the other vehicle to pass, but the horses became frightened and unmanageable, and backed off the grade, falling with the buggy and all its occupants about 35 feet.

Mrs. Nosler was instantly killed, and the judge's life is despaired of. The other woman and the baby were also badly bruised.

One of the horses was killed and the buggy wrecked.

ONE HUNDRED DEATHS.

New Orleans Fever Facilities Have Reached the Century Mark.

New Orleans, Oct. 20.—Before 7 o'clock this evening the 100 mark of deaths during the present period of yellow fever prevalence had been reached. When the board of health closed its books last night there had been 93 fatalities. Between last night and midnight today, seven deaths were reported. This century of deaths has occurred among less than 900 cases that have been reported in to the board since early in September, when the first case made its appearance in New Orleans.

Situation Is Bad.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The yellow fever situation today, as reported to Surgeon-General Wyman, was not favorable, the disease having made its appearance at Baton Rouge, where there is one case, and at Montgomery, Ala., both of which places heretofore have been free from the disease. From Montgomery, Dr. Wyman's information is that four cases had been reported by State Health Officer Sanders. Dispatches from other places show new cases and deaths as follows:

Mobile, six cases, one death.
Scranton, La., 12 cases.
Pascaogo, Miss., two cases.
Edwards, two cases, three deaths.
Cayuga, Miss., three cases, one death.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Fall weather today displaced the prostrating heat of last week. The drop in temperature was general throughout the West and North-west.

To Protect Americans.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The state department has received a cablegram from the charge d'affaires at Guatemala City, stating that owing to the extension of the present revolutionary movement into the eastern portion of Guatemala, American interests in that section and American citizens are endangered, and the presence of a warship is desirable. Accordingly, the secretary of the navy has sent instructions to the Detroit, now in Florida waters, to proceed to Livingston, Guatemala, to protect American interests.

LOSS OF THE TRITON.

At Least 150 Persons Perished in the Disaster.

ONLY FORTY-SIX WERE SAVED

Stories Told by the Survivors—The Captain Committed Suicide as the Ship Went Down.

Havana, Oct. 19.—The gunboat Maria Christina, which left this port yesterday for the scene of the wreck of the Triton, bound from Havana to Bahia Honda, Pinar del Rio, which sank yesterday between Dominica and Mariel, has returned, accompanied by the tugboat Suri, which went with her. The two vessels arrived here this evening, the gunboat having on board 19 and the tugboat 33 members of the lost ship's company, of whom 15 are civilians and the rest soldiers. The whereabouts of the rest of the company is unknown. The Triton struck during a heavy rain. Her cargo shifted and 15 minutes later she sank in 120 fathoms of water.

A scene of terrible confusion and panic ensued as soon as the passengers realized the meaning of the crash. In a wild struggle they rushed for the boats. The first boat that was lowered capsized immediately and all its occupants were drowned in the whirling waters. The next was struck by an enormous wave and turned over, drowning 20. The trail craft righted again, and eight who had been thrown out regained it. Some were good swimmers and kept themselves afloat for hours. Others floated about for hours on planks.

Four soldiers on planks, whom the strong current carried east of Havana opposite Morro castle, were saved this morning by a pilot boat. They declared that last evening there were many others near them on planks, but when the morning came they disappeared and probably became food for sharks.

Those who were rescued tell heart-rending stories of the scenes during the terrible hours of the wreck. The Triton sank. An army captain with his daughter went down locked in a last embrace. A mother with twins 10 months old drifted helplessly away on the crest of a wave. All the other ladies and children were drowned.

Just as the Triton was sinking, Captain Rickardo, her commander, committed suicide by shooting himself.

It is impossible to give the exact number of those who were lost, but it is estimated that they were no fewer than 150. No passenger list has been found. The vessel, which carried a general cargo, was not insured. The 42 rescued persons suffered severely from exposure. All of them were more or less bruised and many of them badly wounded.

THE CISNEROS RECEPTION.

New Yorkers Voted Themselves Hosts Over the Cuban Girl.

New York, Oct. 19.—The popular reception in Madison square tonight was an extraordinary demonstration. Fully 53,000 persons, nearly one-third of them well-dressed women, crowded the upper half of Madison square Park and filled Broadway for the congratulatory speeches to be finished, and the Cuban heroine to appear on the stand erected south of the Worth monument.

Miss Cosimo Cisneros' appearance was the signal for a tremendous demonstration by the great crowd which stretched out for 100 yards before her. The men yelled and waved their hats; the women waved their handkerchiefs, and the band played a Cuban battle song.

With a bouquet in her right hand and a pleased but diffident expression on her face, Miss Cisneros bowed to her audience, for here it was, and then turned to Mr. Dever, indicating that she wanted him to understand that the applause was as much for him as for her. For some moments the two stood forth while the cheering continued. Then Miss Cisneros was led back to the rear platform, where she bowed and smiled to the crowd on that side of the platform. Then she descended the steps to the carriage, which was driven around the square and back to Delmonico's.

Previous to the appearance of Miss Cisneros on the platform, there were a number of short speeches, interspersed with selections by the band. Senator Thurston and Henry George were among the speakers.

A Revenue Vessel Aground.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 19.—The United States revenue practice vessel Salmon P. Chase ran aground in Charleston harbor early this morning after an exciting incident just off Fort Sumter. The bark, failing to mark all buoy, went aground on Camming's point shoal. The situation looked serious for a few moments, but the prompt arrival of assistance from the city averted trouble. The Chase was pulled off by the tug Cecilia, and towed to anchorage in the stream by the revenue cutter Colfax. The Chase will remain here until all danger of yellow fever is past in Florida.

For Famine Sufferers in Ireland.

Spokane, Oct. 19.—C. L. Whitney of Walla Walla, is due here to urge the Northern Pacific officials to provide free transportation for one or more carloads of potatoes and other vegetables, which the people of the Walla Walla country are willing to contribute to the famine sufferers in Ireland. The matter has been referred to Western Land Agent Cooper, at Tacoma. It is thought that three carloads of food products can be gathered in the Walla Walla valley alone.

White Man Lynched in Arkansas.

Demott, Ark., Oct. 19.—A white man named Cole was lynched near Wilmot Friday morning, for murdering Constable James Jones in cold blood. Cole had been arrested for some misdeeds, and was released on bonds. He secured a shotgun and shot the constable in the back, killing him. Cole was found in the woods about eight miles from Wilmot, and was strung up without ceremony.

The Portuguese first brought tea from China and the east in the sixteenth century.

ENGLAND MUST TAKE THE LEAD.

Arbitration Matter Will Not Otherwise Be Revived.

New York, Oct. 20.—A dispatch to the Herald from Washington says: Unless the British foreign office presses the negotiations in connection with a general arbitration treaty the matter will not again be taken up by this government. Neither the administration nor the British foreign office has during the last three months shown any disposition to expedite matters. Department officials declare that Great Britain must be the one to revive the subject if it is to be revived at all. A cabinet official says the president is still desirous of securing a treaty of arbitration with Great Britain. Mr. McKinley hoped that more interest would be taken by Great Britain than heretofore.

The authorities are apparently much chagrined over England's action in the Behring sea matter, in which all the interested powers were to participate. Had the general arbitration treaty negotiated by the Cleveland administration been approved the controversy in regard to seals could properly be considered by such a tribunal as proposed by that convention.

Lord Salisbury would also be pleased to have the treaty in force, for then he could permit the sealing question to be arbitrated and put out to Canada that she was bound by the convention to take such action. Now, however, the negotiation of a general arbitration treaty might be considered by Canadians as indicative of a desire of the Salisbury government to play into the hands of the United States.

Earl Li to Retire.

Tacoma, Oct. 20.—According to Chinese advice just received, Earl Li Hung Chang will no longer take an active part in government. A native correspondent writing from Peking says that Li has been in ill health, though it is not generally known. He is anxious for a rest. This will permit him to relinquish his duty as grand secretary and minister of the tung-li-yamen. He realizes there are many reforms which China must soon undertake if she is to preserve her unity, and he would like to have a part in carrying them out. Knowing, however, that only a start can be made while he lives, and that care and worry will shorten his days, he has decided to retire as soon as possible to the quiet of his own estate in Anhui.

Sugar Beets in New Mexico.

Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 20.—Industrial Commissioner Davis, of the Santa Fe railroad, and a party of capitalists are examining into sugar-beet farms here. They have found acres of beets weighing from one to six pounds, which, according to analysis by the territorial agricultural college, yield from 15 to 18 per cent sugar. They express surprise that Rocky mountain valleys above 5,000 feet in altitude can show such results.

There is a project on foot to erect a sugar factory here and Commissioner Davis said his corporation will give it all possible support. He says also that it is probable that Eastern capital will within a short time establish a large sugar factory somewhere in the Central Rio Grande valley.

A New Catholic Policy.

New York, Oct. 20.—It is reported in high official circles that Archbishop Corrigan has been negotiating with Superintendent Jasper of the public schools for the affiliation of parochial and public schools in this city. He has offered, it is alleged, to turn the Catholic schools with their 70,000 children, over to the municipal school authorities, provided he is permitted to give an hour's instruction daily to the Catholic children of the public schools. This is the stipulation. He makes no other, either as regards textbooks or teachers. It is said many other metropolitans are anxious to adopt a similar policy if it meets the approval of the apostolic delegate.

A Phenomenal Freak.

St. Louis, Oct. 20.—A local commission merchant has brought to light a phenomenon, which is attracting the attention of scientists here. While one of the employees of the house was dressing a turkey he was dumfounded to find in its interior a live, well-formed young turkey as large as a full-grown pigeon. It is perfect in every way, excepting the head, which was attached to the mother, and is a fatty growth. The little turkey died as soon as it was severed from its dead mother. It was preserved in alcohol and is now in the collection of the Missouri medical college, where it is attracting the attention of the medical fraternity.

Walked in Front of a Train.

Stockton, Cal., Oct. 20.—A tramp believed to be J. Heffernan, formerly of this city, was ground to pieces by the Southern Pacific train last night at Castle switch. When the engineer blew the whistle, the man looked back and continued to walk along the track, so it is supposed he deliberately committed suicide.

Durand Case Advanced.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The supreme court today advanced the argument in the Durand murder case brought here from San Francisco, and set it for hearing November 15.

Made Spurious Coins in Prison.

Pittsburg, Oct. 20.—Warden Wright of Riverside penitentiary, has discovered that convicts have been manufacturing counterfeit 50-cent pieces. He has unearthed metal from which the "queer" money was made and molds in which it was cast. The counterfeiters are magnificent specimens of the coiners' art. The counterfeiters had already secured connection with outside parties and some of the bad money is now in circulation.

"Rip" Jefferson as a Framer.

Boston, Oct. 20.—For the first time on record an actor has preached a sermon to state prison convicts. Joseph Jefferson is the man, and the prison chapel at Charlestown was yesterday brightened by the hearty presence of the famous portrayer of "Rip Van Winkle." Eight hundred prisoners listened to the address which was devoted to the subject of temperance.

London, Oct. 20.—A dispatch from Dantis says Arthur Dux, a young journalist, was shot dead in a duel this morning by a lieutenant of the Hussars.

HIS WISH GRATIFIED.

After Completing Long Term, Justice Field Resigns.

FORTY YEARS OF JUDICIAL LIFE

The Aged Jurist's Letter to His Colleagues—Resignation to Take Effect December 1.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Associate Justice Stephen J. Field today formally retired from the supreme court of the United States, after 34 years of service in that tribunal. The correspondence between Justice Field and the president which was made public today, shows that his resignation was tendered in April last. President McKinley, however, did not respond until October 9. While Justice Field's resignation does not take effect until December 1, he will not again sit on the supreme court.

His colleagues of the supreme court today called upon him and expressed regret at his retirement and extended their congratulations upon his long service as associate justice—the longest on record.

The following letter was given out this afternoon:

"Washington, Oct. 16.—Dear Mr. Chief Justice and Brethren—Near the close of the last term, feeling that the duties of my long office had become too arduous for my strength, I transmitted my resignation to the president to take effect on the first day of December next, and this he has accepted with kindly expressions of regard. My judicial experience covers many years of service. Having been elected a member of the supreme court of California, I assumed that office October 18, 1857, holding it for five years, seven months and five days, the latter part of the time being chief justice. On the 10th of March, 1868, I was commissioned by President Lincoln justice of the supreme court of the United States, taking the oath of office on the 10th day of the following May.

"When my resignation takes effect my period of service on this bench will have exceeded that of any of my predecessors, while my entire judicial life will have embraced more than 40 years. I may be pardoned for saying that during all this period, long in comparison with the brevity of human life, though in retrospect it has gone with the swiftness of a tale that is told, I have not shunned to declare in every case coming before me for decision conclusions which my deliberate convictions exercise of such abilities and requirements as I possessed.

"It is a pleasant thing in my memory that my appointment came from President Lincoln, of whose appointees I am the last survivor. Up to that time, there had been no representative here from the Pacific coast. A new empire had risen in the West, whose laws were those of another country. The land titles were from Spanish and Mexican grants, both of which were often overlaid by the claims of first settlers. To bring order out of this confusion, congress passed an act providing for another seat on this bench, with the intention that it should be filled by some one familiar with these conflicting titles and with the mining laws of the coast, and it so happened that, as I had framed the principal of these laws, and, moreover, chief justice of California, it was the wish of senators and representatives of this state, as well as those from Oregon, that I should succeed to the new position.

"Few appreciate the magnitude of our labors. The burden resting upon us for the last 15 or 20 years has been enormous. The volumes of our reports show that I alone have written 620 opinions. If to these are added 57 opinions in the circuit court and 865 prepared while I was on the supreme court of California, it will be seen I have voiced the decision in 1,042 cases. It may be said that all of our decisions have not met with the universal approval of the American people, yet it is to the great glory of that people that always and everywhere has been yielded a willing obedience to them. That fact is eloquent of the stability of popular institutions, and demonstrates that the people of the United States are capable of self-government.

"As I look back over the more than a third of a century that I have sat on this bench, I am more and more impressed with the immeasurable importance of this court. Now and then we hear it spoken of as an aristocratic feature of a republican government. But it is the most democratic of all. Senators represent their states, and representatives their constituencies, but this court stands for the whole country, and, as such, it is truly of the people, by the people, and for the people.

"It has indeed no power to legislate. It cannot appropriate a dollar of money. It carries neither the purse nor the sword. But it does possess the power of declaring the law, and in that is founded the safeguard which keeps the whole mighty fabric of government from rushing to destruction. This negative power, the power of resistance, is the only safety of a popular government, and it is an additional assurance when the power is in such hands as yours.

"With this I give place to my successor, but I can never cease to linger in memories of the past. Though we have often differed in our opinions, it has always been an honest difference, which did not affect our mutual regard and respect. These many years have indeed been years of labor and of toil, but they have brought their own rewards, and we can all join in thanking to the author of our being that we have been permitted to spend so much of our lives in the service of our country. STEPHEN J. FIELD."

Big Seattle Mill Plant Burned.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 18.—Fire in the Stetson & Post Mill Company's plant tonight destroyed $10,000 worth of lumber. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

The Friction Gear Locomotive.

Cape May, N. J., Oct. 18.—The H. P. Holman friction gear locomotive, on trial today, made a mile in 44.8 seconds on the first trial, and in 42 seconds in the second sprint. The train consisted of two passenger coaches.

Turkey owes 17 per cent of her national debt to German capitalists.

THE RUSH TO THE NORTH.

Nearly 9,000 Men Started for the Klondike in Two Months.

Tacoma, Oct. 19.—The railroad companies have for the past month had a man at work compiling statistics of the amount of business done between the Sound and Alaska during the rush incident to the gold excitement. According to these figures, which have been very carefully gathered and verified, 1,348 persons took passage for St. Michaels, and 7,038 went to Wrangell, Juneau, Skagway and Dyea, between July 17 and September 11.

During this same period, 12,000 tons of freight were shipped to St. Michaels, and about 24,000 tons to the four above named lower ports. This includes business done at British Columbian ports.

In addition to the large passenger and freight list, 3,860 mules and horses were shipped north, 1,116 head of beef and other cattle, as well as over 2,000 dogs. The report closes with a note, which says: "In the above figures nothing is included from outside the Sound district. Probably, if Portland and San Francisco freight and passenger were included, it would nearly double the already almost incredible figures of 35,000 tons of freight and 8,876 passengers moved to the north inside of two months."

Of the passengers that have returned, the report says:

"The number cannot so far be ascertained, as many have gone to Portland and San Francisco direct, but a fair estimate of the number that will reach their final destination this winter is as follows: Of the 1,200 who embarked for St. Michaels, not more than 400 could possibly reach the diggings by way of the river, with the limited means of transportation then on the river. About 300 will be scattered along the river banks to a point 1,000 miles or so from the mouth. The remainder will either winter at St. Michaels or return on the boats now at that port. Of the 8,000 that took passage for lower ports, not to exceed 8,500 have succeeded in getting away from the lakes, and about 95 per cent of this number will fail to reach the Klondike diggings by reason of mishaps on the rivers and frost overtaking them.

"So far, over 2,000 persons have returned to the Sound, and a conservative estimate I think would be that fully as many more will reach the Sound by the middle of November: of which number, unfortunately 75 per cent will be fat broke.

"As several thousand tons of provisions got up the river, and as there was a reasonably fair supply for the wants of the miners before the present excitement, I see no reason why we should look for any famine, as, according to the figures of my report, not to exceed 3,500 new miners will reach the diggings this year, and 80 per cent of these will have provisions enough to last them for six or nine months at least. So, what with the provisions from Portland and San Francisco, I think the stories told about miners starving are not founded on fact."

CHAS. A. DANA DEAD.

The Veteran Editor Passed Away at His Long Island Home.

New York, Oct. 19.—Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, died at 12:30 this afternoon, at Glen Cove, Long Island.

Mr. Dana's death had been expected for several hours, and his family and physicians all sat at his bedside when the end came. His condition had been such for several hours that members of his family had kept themselves in constant readiness to go to his bedside at any moment. On Saturday morning he had a relapse, and it was apparent that recovery was impossible. Several times, however, he rallied, but toward night he began to sink. During the night there were feeble rallies, but they did not last long. This morning it was seen that the end was but a few hours off, and his attendants remained almost constantly at his bedside. The end came quickly.

The extreme heat of Friday and Saturday had much to do with hastening his death. On Friday, Mr. Dana showed signs of distress, and everything possible was done to relieve him. He had been weakened by his long illness, and during the summer was several times thought to be on the verge of fatal collapse, but each time rallied. He did not improve much with the coming cool weather, and the sinking spells became more frequent. On Friday, Mr. Dana was able to take only the lightest nourishment, and this condition continued.

Paul Dana and his sisters, Mrs. Draper, Mrs. Underhill and Mrs. Brannan were at his home Saturday morning, and were warned to remain there. They were at the bedside when death came. The cause of Mr. Dana's death was cirrhosis of the liver. On June 9 he was at his office, apparently strong and healthy. The next day he was taken ill, and never afterwards visited New York. He was 78 years old.

Preparations for the burial have not yet been completed.

Canadian Independence.

May Postpone the Sale.

New York, Oct. 19.—The Herald publishes the following: Owing to the fact that President McKinley has received news that a new syndicate of New York men, as well as the Huntington-Gould combination, stands ready to bid at the sale of the Union Pacific, providing the terms of payment are satisfactorily changed, within a few days he may order a postponement. The sale was advertised to take place on November 2.

Razors Were in the Air.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—As a result of the orchestra at a colored dance last night refusing to play until paid for their services, six men, including a policeman, were slashed with razors. Barney Reed was probably fatally cut.

A New Kite Record.

Blue Hill Observatory, Mass. Oct. 19.—The kite record made here on September 14 has been beaten by over 150 feet by three kites on four miles of wire, carrying a meteorological instrument to the height of 11,500 feet above sea level.
