

Timothy Ford, the well known attorney of Salem, last week lost his first matched baggy team, valued at $200. They died from inflammation of bowels.

S. A. Mills narrowly escaped a fatal accident the other day. While working in his well, a bucket became detached from above and fell, striking him on the head, and cutting an ugly gash in the scalp. Dr. Littlefield sewed up the wound and the patient is doing nicely.—Newberg Graphic.

The Wasp is a weekly illustrated journal, published at San Francisco, Cal. The illustrations which it contains give really hit the point as to its editorials. Each issue contains a variety of reading—political, news of the day, etc., all of which is interesting, fresh and new. $4 per year.

Last week the City of Eugene while on the way down from Corvallis, ran on a snag just below Albany, tearing a hole in her hull. Capt. James Smith succeeded in running the boat into shallow water before the cargo was damaged, and a bulk head was formed around the hole in hull, so that the boat could be taken on down to Portland, where she is now undergoing repairs, which will probably be completed within a week. The cargo consisted mostly of wheat and flour.

The author of "In His Steps" the famous religious book, of which over $3,000,000 copies have been sold, has been induced to answer, in an article which he has sent to The Ladies Home the question which in concealing his book: "Is this plan practical in our present daily life?" Mr. Sheldon does not evade the question, but answers it in a direct and vigorous manner, and tells exactly what he believes would be effect of his plan upon modern business methods and present day social life.

BRAVE MEN FALL.—Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Ind. He says: "Elect in Blue's life is the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents, at R. L. Harris' drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

Mrs. Harris, wife of Capt. Wyatt Harris, of McMinnville, died Monday, October 9th, at her home in that city. She had been in failing health for a year or more. Mrs. Harris was born in Lawrence county, Mo., Oct. 21th, 1844; was married to Capt. Wyatt Harris Sept. 23, 1866. Came to California in 1878, and in 1879 to Oregon. Lived in Salem a short time, and then with her family moved to Polk county, where they lived until 1883, moving from there to Yamhill county, 19 years of time living in McMinnville. Deceased was the mother of four sons, three of whom are living—Arthur who lately returned from the Philippine I., Fred of Chicago and Duncan, who is at Manila, on the gun boat Petrel. These, with their father and his niece Ethel mourn the loss of a faithful wife, an affectionate mother and aunt.

Mrs. L. G. Johnson the national W. C. T. U. lecturer, who spoke at the M. E. church last Saturday and Sunday, is probably the most forcible lady speaker who ever addressed an audience in Dayton. She speaks with vigor, and says what she thinks, and believing with all her heart what she says. It is believed that much good was done to awaken the people to the terrible condition we are at present in, on account of the liquor traffic which causes intemperance and crime, and yet is made lawful by being licensed by municipalities, state and national authorities. If all good people would unite, they could, by the ballot, wipe this evil from the land. Mrs. Johnson's christian spirit, and womanly zeal, and clear reasoning with her vast knowledge of the temperance cause, made her lecture very instructive and entertaining; and her effort was highly appreciated by all who heard her. Praise God for such women.

W. R. B.

It is not strange that within these late years that sentiment of some people has undergone a marked change in regard to many questions which effect the various phases of social and political life in this country, but if there is one quality above another which is an absolute essential to political success and social advancement, it is that of sincerity. The cost is too great when we attempt to mislead the people with whom we constantly associate, with ideas foreign to common sense and contradictory to the Divine order of things. Where did the writers of answers to "Old Contributor" collect their information that the father of our race was two persons, and not two? How in the name of common sense can such an argument hold together? The history of the creation of man is plain and need no special and exhaustive explanation, read Gen. 2:7 to close of chapter. It is as clear and comprehensive a narrative of the creation of man and woman as is possible to imagine. No other part of holy writ explains it so clearly, in fact does explain it at all. The passage that the lady mentioned merely corroborates the act that such a thing was, hence, how important it is that sincerity characterize the utterances of our everyday life far better is it to give to the world the truth as we know and find it, than to go cackling around with what we do not understand. They further presume to imagine that woman is man's equal, if not his superior. 2d that there is not a particle of difference between the progenitors of our race. 3d, that woman is abundantly able to take upon herself the responsibility of government. What insincerity. What rank fallacy! Where do you find confirmation of these facts? It certainly is no lie overable in holy writ, ancient or modern. It is not an creation of nonsense and stuff. Is not the nature of everything living the ruler? And in the economy of Nature is it not justifiable to argue the woman is equal if not superior to man in an artistic and ruling intelligence to contradict all reason and truth, and politely inform the Creator that He, with the rest, have blundered outrageously. We must admit though, that woman played a conspicuous part in the drama of life in the garden of Eden, which brought upon our first parents and all the rest of mankind since that time, suffering and misery beyond the pen of mortal to portray. She became a willing tool in the hands of the enemy of God to bring about the first act of disobedience which excluded man from enjoying what for him was specially designed. Question—where did man receive his first knowledge of good and evil? Such a question deserves the contempt of the school boy; but for the writer's enlightenment I would invite her to read Gen. 3d chap., and I would add that man like Adam, realized the difference soon after. Of course women do not care to marry. For be it from me to insinuate that those angelic creatures even, want to marry. The marriage obligations, the husband's political privileges are serious objections. A pure accident brings it about, the brute of a man that surprises them, but said brute does not gain by not applying the surprise. What does native daughter mean by telling of the early hardships endured by women of early history of Oregon? Does she mean that they understood that life for curiosity, and to make Oregon a woman suffrage state; falling to do that in the East? If so, she is mistaken. Other things called them to leave their comfortable homes for one of danger and death. I suggest what I believe could be endorsed by intelligent people: That a woman love her husband and family better than everything; that if necessary, she would go with the man of their choice to the north pole. There was no cringing on their part to meet every obligation marriage demanded. They filled a woman's place faithfully, like the loving wife of Provius, whom France has wrongfully seized. They have a memory that time cannot efface. The crimes of this country did not go about cackling for woman suffrage, and showing around in halls of legislation and endeavor to impress legislators with difference between a Paris trimmed hat and a sunbonnet. But the question of woman suffrage—why should be the final outcome? There is but one answer: the absolute annihilation of the same in this beloved Oregon.

THREE DOCTORS IN CONSULTATION. From Benjamin Franklin.
