Poison Oak Poison Ivy

are among the best known of the many dangerous wild plants and shrubs. To touch or handle them quickly produces swelling and inflammation with intense itching and burning of the skin. The eruption soon disappears, the sufferer hopes forever; but almost as soon as the little blisters and pustules appeared the poison had reached the blood, and will break out at regular intervals and each time in a more aggravated form. This poison will loiter in the system for years, and every atom of i must be forced out of the blood before you can expect a perfect, permanent cure.

SSS Nature's Antidote FOR Nature's Poisons, is the only cure for Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, and all noxious plants. It is composed exclusively of roots and herbs. Now is the time to get the poison out of your system, as delay makes your condition worse. Don't experiment longer with salves, washes and soaps—they never cure.

Mr. S. M. Marshall, bookkeeper of the Atlanta (Ga.) Gas Light Co., was poisoned with Poison Oak. He took Sulphur, Arsenic and various other drugs, and applied externally numerous lotions and salves with no benefit. At times the swelling and inflammation was so severe he was almost blind. For eight years the poison would break out every season. His condition was much improved after taking one bottle of S. S. S., and a few bottles cleared his blood of the poison, and all evidences of the disease disappeared.

People are often poisoned without knowing when or how. Explain your case fully to our physicians, and they will cheerfully give such information and advice as you require, without charge, and we will send at the same time an interesting book on Blood and Skin Diseases.

The Homestake mine, located on the North Fork of John day river, seven miles from Lawton, has been bonded to Eastern capitalists by the owners, Messrs. Tom Johnson and Joseph Robison, for the sum of $25,000 on a year's time. Further conditions of the bond are that the persons holding it are to take immediate possession and prosecute the work of development with a large force of men divided into three eight-hour shifts, says the Lawton Standard.

Petitions have been circulated for three different free rural deliveries out of Albany, nearly covering the entire field in all directions around the city, and there are hopes of the same being established, but it is not known whether they will reach the department in time for the agent now establishing routes in the state to act upon them before his departure. The route out of Shedd has given such general satisfaction that there is a general desire to have the system extended here.

The Wallowa marshal ran in a man for peddling without a license, who defied the city authorities and would not even listen to the reading of the complaint by the recorder. He was incarcerated in the city prison for contempt of court, where he languished for two or three days or until some people around town put up $6 for a jury trial. The jury thought upon the evidence offered that the man was entitled to a discharge, and so rendered its verdict. The man is a foreigner, presumably an Italian. He threatened to sue the city for damages.

From private letters received by M. G. Hope, of Vale, it is learned that the Ocean Wave mine is making a splendid showing. I. N. Clark, a mining expert, has the development work of the mine in charge, and in a letter that was received from him he says that several fine nuggets have been taken out lately. In a former letter he stated that the gold is not confined to the rich vein that is being followed, but that small particles of it may be seen in the dirt over the entire face and walls of the tunnel. It is his opinion that it would pay to mill the whole hill on which he is working. This mine is an extension of the Golden Eagle, which is owned by Portland capitalists.

The case of Casey vs. Crook county, involving the validity of the county road which the county court established about a year ago through the lands of Casey, near Powell Butte, has been decided by the circuit court against the county. The court decided that in establishing the road the county court acted without jurisdiction.

BETTER TRADE CONDITIONS.

Holiday Preparations Dominant in Retail Business Throughout the East.

Bradstreet's says: Favorable conditions rule generally in all lines of seasonable trade. Holiday preparations are, of course, dominant in retail business, and, where this has hitherto lagged, it has been stimulated by more seasonable weather. Wholesale distribution is lifted, and is now natural at this period, but western jobbers are in receipt of a fair re-order business. So far, the best reports as to retail trade come from the West and South. In leading industrials the best report is still that made by finished products of the iron and steel industry, but other favorably situated lines are boots and shoes and lumber. New business in the former is rather light at wholesale, but manufacturers generally are busily employed, and leatehr is firm in sympathy. A good export demand for the latter is noted.

The cereals are lower in price, due to profit taking on the late upward move, the larger movement of supplies, particularly of corn, which is favored by the weather, and to less interest of the present foreign buyers.

While business in iron and steel as a whole is quieter than of late there is no apparent diminution in strength and actual transactions in rails and plates compare well with the best recorded. Pig iron is dull except for some business at Chicago and 25 cents per ton has been conceded on Bessemer at Pittsburg.

LIVE ON TEN CENTS A DAY.

Resi ents at the Rusk n Colony in Geo gia Are Economical.

While other people have been theorizing, the Ruskinites of Georgia have demonstrated by actual experience the lowest possible daily cost for food for their entire community. They have solved the riddle of how to live at the lowest cost. When forced to leave their Tennessee home the colonists were hard pushed, but they possessed stout hearts and willing hands, and to-day are on a fair road to prosperity. They live and live well at an actual cost per capita of less than 10 cents a day.

Everything they consume is bought at wholesale, in large quantities, and is cooked in the community kitchen. In the community dining-room tables are set for 300 people. Those who do not wish to eat with the crowd are given the privilege of purchasing company stores and cooking it at home. When vegetables are scarce these people are allowed 7 cents per capita a day; that is, 7 cents for each person, big, little, old, young, sick or well. When vegetables are plentiful the cash allowance is only 5 cents. As the community raises its own vegetables, the approximate cost is only about 2 cents per capita a day, making the actual cost of living at Ruskin from 7 to 9 cents a day for each man, woman and child.

The community dining-room is a large room, 25 feet wide and 150 feet long, where we see nearly 300 men, women and children seated at long tables. Breakfast is our first meal. We make a wholesome meal on light bread furnished by the colony baker, butter, Georgia sirup, oatmeal, Irish potatoes, milk, cereal coffee and sugar.

Dinner generally varies, according to the season. The bill of fare usually consists of rice or peas, beans or macaroni, some two or more of these; Georgia sirup, beets, tomatoes, egg plants, potatoes, soup, bread and cereal coffee—cereal coffee is manufactured by the colonists and is one of their main industries.

For supper, cheese in some form, lemonade, cake, rice or beans, sugar, grits, mush, fried potatoes, cold tea and bread. The meals are wholesome, satisfying and well prepared. Of course, there are no little delicacies. As will be noticed, the colonists only get meat twice a week.—Atlanta Journal.

CONTESTING FOR HONORS.

Chinese Undergo Examinations While in Their Closed Cells.

The University of London a few years ago admitted to its initial examinations about 1,400 students and passed one-half. There are four different examinations in the Chinese university. The first is for the degree of "Budding Genius," corresponding to our B. A. The examination is held in every prefecture. The second is for the degree of "Promoted Scholar," or M. A., and is held in each provincial capital. Li-Hung-Chang has never advanced beyond this degree. The third is for "Fit for Office," a sort of D. C. L. or LL. D. The fourth is for admission to the Hanlin academy, or "Forest of Pencils," which makes the successful scholar one of the great men of the empire. Each degree is open only to the men who have won the lower degrees. The lowest is open to anyone. "A man of talent," as Dr. Martin says, "may raise himself from the humblest ranks to the dignity of viceroy or premier." No land can be more democratic than China.

In each provincial capital is an examination hall. It consists of long rows of cells open at the end and just large enough to hold a scholar with his bedding, teapot and food. There are 12,000 cells in the Canton hall. A great wall surrounds the grounds, and at the end is the hall where the officials sit. The candidates are all admitted at the same time, assigned to their cells and the gates are sealed. If a student dies, as often happens, his body is put through a small hole in the wall. Each examination lasts twenty-four hours. Then the students are released for two days, only to return for two more sieges. A paper with blots or defacements is thrown out. Such innocent questions as this are proposed to them: "The art of war arose under Hwang-Ti forty-four hundred years ago. Different dynasties have since that time adopted different regulations in regard to the use of militia or standing armies, the mode of raising supplies for the army, etc. Can you state these briefly?" The men who pass these examinations are a lot of pedants, arid as the deserts and primeval as the patriarchs.—Leslie's Monthly.

His Banjo a Barometer.

There is a young man about town who is always prepared for all kinds of weather. No matter if he attends a function when the night is cloudless and rain falls before he goes home, he is always on hand with an umbrella, much to the delight of the girl with him.

For a long time his secret remained undisclosed, and he was looked upon as a weather prophet who could give points to the local bureau. However, it is no longer a secret, for the young man confessed not long ago the reason for his invariably correct prognostication of nasty weather. He is a very fair banjoist, and it was noticed that he always played on his instrument before going out at night. When the plaintive sounds were muffled, he never neglected to take his umbrella, but if, on the contrary, the sound was sharp and clear he went without it.

The head, or sounding board, of a banjo is made of sheepskin, and in damp weather it expands, and the head comes tight as a drum. This is the reason for his invariable good luck in "picking" the weather, for he owns a natural barometer.

Travels of a Blood Corpuscle.

The mileage of the blood circulation reveals some astonishing facts in our personal history. Thus it has been calculated that, assuming the heart to beat sixty-nine times a minute at ordinary heart pressure, the blood goes at the rate of 207 yards in the minute, or seven miles per hour, 168 miles per day and 61,320 miles per year. If a man of 84 years of age could have one single blood corpuscle floating in his blood all his life it would have traveled in that same time 5,150,880 miles.
