

What are Humors?

They are vitiated or impured fluids affecting the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion and are sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves?
In many forms of cutaneous eruptions, salt rheum or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor, general debility, and in many other affections.

How are they expelled? By Hood's Sarsaparilla

which also builds up the system that has suffered from them.

It is the best medicine for all humors.

Contradictions.
"Well, Digby, I'm surprised!
You're getting gray!"

"Yes, yes; I've got lots of gray hairs and precious few of them."

E. W. Howe
This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Castoria Tablets
the remedy that cures a Colic in one day.

Anxious to Serve.
Lawyer—It is reported that you have frequently expressed yourself as opposed to capital punishment.

Deacon Highbowl (drawn for jury duty)—I won't have no scruples in that man's case. He cheated me on a horse trade once.

If you wish to keep in touch with new things in photography subscribe to Camera Craft, the best photographic journal in the world. 330 Sutter Street, San Francisco, Cal.

A Slave to Fashion.
Warden—What's the row over there in the cell house?

Guard—That embezzler says he won't stay any longer if he can't have cravens in his trousers and raglan shoulders in his coat.

Pino's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—
W. S. WELLS, Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1901.

Know His Business.
Hostess—Fear me, the conversation is flagging. What can we do to amuse our guests?

Host—I don't know, unless we leave the drawing room for a few minutes and give them a chance to talk about us.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS

There is a certain healthy movement of the bowels every day, and if it is not there, it is a sign of disease. It is the only way to keep the system in the best of health. It is the only way to keep the system in the best of health. It is the only way to keep the system in the best of health.

Cascarets

There has been quite a change in Becklie, hasn't there?"

"How so?"

"He has taken to driving a motor car."

"I can't see that that's any change.
He will still continue to run down his neighbors."

Accuracy above everything else is needed in photography. Our new balance scale weighs a grain as easy as an ounce. Price $3.00. At dealers, or Kirk, Geary & Co., 330 Sutter St., San Francisco.

Disappointed the Farmer.
"That city man that was visiting me is an overrated cuss," remarked the farmer.

"How so?"

"Oh, the papers all said he was a great hand at watering stock, but I found he couldn't work the pump five minutes without laming his arm."

FITS Permanently Cured. No fit or paroxysm after the first dose. No pain or suffering.
No loss of time. No loss of strength.
No loss of appetite. No loss of sleep.
No loss of color. No loss of hair.
No loss of weight. No loss of life.

A Former Conquistador.
He—But why do you want me to ask Binnleigh to the house?

She—Why do you wear your medal?

He—It represents that victorious campaign I went through before we married.

She—So does he.

Keep Your Blood Clean

Wanted a Clear Understanding.
"I am sorry, sir," said the surgeon, but we shall have to perform an operation."

"I know you're not sorry, doctor," said the man with the appendicitis.
"You are glad. And now we understand each other, doctor, you can go ahead."

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
This Laxative Bromo-Castoria Tablets All drugs refund the money if it fails to cure.
K. W. Groves' signature is on each box. 330

Took the Blow.
"To think that an American banner should ever stand a blow without returning it."

"When did that happen?"

"To the western bureau storm flag in the last cyclone."

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Coal Miners by the Million.
Over 2,000,000 miners are required to produce the world's supply of coal.
Of this number, 63,660 are employed in Great Britain and 401,230 are employed in the United States.

From the "Vedevall."
"Well," asked the spiritualistic fortune teller's next door neighbor,
"how's business?"

"Oh, medium."

Blood Poison

THE MOST DESTRUCTIVE OF
ALL HUMAN DISEASES.

The poison ejected from the fangs of the rattlesnake is not more surely fatal than the virus of Contagious Blood Poison, which pollutes and vitiates the blood, destroys the tissues and eats like a canker sore into the flesh.

This horrible disease appears first in the form of a little sore or blister; soon the glands begin to swell, pimples break out on the body, the mouth and throat become sore, making it painful to eat or swallow; dreadful ulcers appear on the tongue, copper-colored spots and other characteristic signs of Blood Poison come as the disease progresses, and the destructive virus takes deeper hold upon the system. The medical men are as sorely perplexed over the character of this blood poison as ever; they tell you to take mercury and potash alternately for three years, but the stomach of no human being can stand this treatment long; besides, they do not cure the disease permanently, as thousands who have tried it know.

WILLINGTON, KAN., Sept., 1900.
I contracted Blood Poison two years ago this fall, and was persuaded to try a medicine widely advertised as a remedy company in Chicago. I was required to pay a large amount in advance, and was truthfully said that I was worse when the treatment was left than when I began. Reddish pimples would break out all over my body, and I was unable to eat or sleep. My throat was so sore I could scarcely swallow, and my mouth was filled with ulcers. I was so weak that I could not walk, and my hair was falling out rapidly. This was my condition when I began your S. S. S. I have used twenty-two bottles, and am feeling splendid. Every sore on my body has healed, and my appetite good. JACK MARTIN.

S. S. S. is the only guaranteed purely vegetable blood purifier, and the only antidote for this particular virus. It purifies the blood and builds up the constitution. The appetite improves almost from the first dose, the sores soon show signs of healing,
and the unsightly, dirty spots and eruptions
grow paler and paler,
and finally disappear.

"This is no good to me, madam," he said, quietly; "it is plugged."

Being address as "madam" when she does not enjoy that felicity may have tended to break her up still more. At any rate, she announced that she had

DOG WORKS MIRACLE.

HE SAVES A FAMILY FROM THE
POORHOUSE.

Not Only That, He Also Paid Rent,
Lamp Oil, and the Table, Provided Medicine for a Sick Woman, and Fat Sheets on His Master's Feet.

This is a story of a dog that saved a man and his wife from the poorhouse.
The dog paid the rent, bought medicine
for a sick woman, kept the table going for a month, and even put shoes on his master's feet.

Flash is the name of the dog, and he is a fox terrier. How he performed these remarkable things is best told
by his owner.

"My wife and I came to Chicago about four months ago from St. Louis,"
he said. "We had been married only a short time when I lost my position as a drug clerk. I tried for two weeks to get work at any kind of employment, but I was unable to find anything to earn a dollar at. So we decided to pick up and come to Chicago. Upon our arrival here we got three rooms for $7 a month and settled down to house-keeping as soon as the furniture arrived.

"It was right after the holidays that we landed here, and I found the drug business even slower in Chicago than it was in St. Louis. There were a few advertisements in the papers from day to day for drug clerks, but it was always my luck to be too late. After the second week I began to answer any kind of advertisement of help wanted. Being a stranger in the city I had difficulty in looking up places, and I was slow in getting to addresses because I did not want to spend any money for car fare. When I arrived here I had less than $30, and the little pile was growing smaller day by day,
and by the end of March our money
was about gone.

"Now I'll tell you about the dog. He is one that my wife raised from a puppy. I wanted to sell him to a friend who would listen to it. She said she wouldn't come to Chicago unless Flash came with her. He is a pedigreed fox and is worth $25 of anybody's money.

"It was election day, the 2d of April
—I will never forget it—that my wife
tied a blue ribbon round the dog's neck
and told me to take him out and sell
him. We were fast broke and she thought I could get at least $10 for the dog. She cried a little when I left home, and it seemed as if the dog knew what was going on. I brought him down to Madison and Dearborn streets,
and I wasn't there two hours before I sold him. He is such a pretty marked little fellow that everybody who passed stopped to look at him. I set a price of $10 on him, because I knew nobody would pay more than that.
More than fifty persons asked me the price and when I would tell them they would walk away, saying, 'he's a nice dog, but I don't want to pay for it.' I finally came down to $5, because the
wife was sick and in need of medicine,
and I thought best to get it as soon as possible. A woman with gold-bowed spectacles bought him and took him home. I didn't ask her where she lived,
and I don't know to this day.

"The second day after that the dog returned home. Where he came from or how he got back I don't know. My wife was so glad to see him that she forgot her sickness for awhile. She was fondling the dog and talking baby talk to him when the thought occurred to me to take him out and sell him again. 'Maybe he'll run away from his next master and come back to us
again,' I said to the wife, and we both laughed heartily. I took the dog down next to the afternoon and had no trouble in selling him again for $5. The next morning before we were up he was back at the little flat on Center avenue. He seemed to understand why he was being sold, and he expressed his approval of the scheme by laughing and talking. That may sound strange to some people who do not understand dogs, but it is a fact that dogs laugh and talk just the same as human beings.

"During the month of April I sold the dog seven times, getting $5 for him each time. If it hadn't been for him
we certainly would have been compelled to apply to the county agent for relief. The wife was in need of medical attention, and it is probable she would have had to go to the poorhouse.
The $35 I got for the dog paid the rent
and all other expenses, besides buying a pair of shoes for me. I got a position the first of May, and I guess we will have money sailing from now on.
All the money in the world would not induce my wife or myself to part with the dog, who really saved us from the poorhouse."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

PLAYED HER LAST CARD.

How Her Many Venetians Finally Culmi-
nated on the Car.

One explanation is that she was not in a good humor when she took the
car. She had seen a big man beating
a little horse and when she had protested after the manner of an excited woman he had told her to "Gwa'n an chase y'rself," and when she got a policeman he would make no arrest until she had agreed to make a complaint and she had not gone forty feet before she rued this rash pledge to appear in the role of a prosecuting witness.

The car started as soon as both her feet were on the steps and her voice
was sharp when she told the conductor that every passenger had to make a run and jump to get aboard. For her part she wished that electricity had never been harnessed. People needed eyes in the backs of their heads these days.

Owing to her agitated frame of mind
it was not unnatural that she should
hand the conductor a plugged quarter, says the Detroit Free Press. He was at first disposed to pocket the coin and
the implied reflection on his ability to look after the interests of the company, but her curt request for the right
change was her undoing.

"This is no good to me, madam," he
said, quietly; "it is plugged."

Being address as "madam" when she
does not enjoy that felicity may have
tended to break her up still more. At
any rate, she announced that she had

DOG WORKS MIRACLE.

HE SAVES A FAMILY FROM THE
POORHOUSE.

Not Only That, He Also Paid Rent,
Lamp Oil, and the Table, Provided Medicine for a Sick Woman, and Fat
Sheets on His Master's Feet.

This is a story of a dog that saved a
man and his wife from the poorhouse.
The dog paid the rent, bought medicine
for a sick woman, kept the table going
for a month, and even put shoes on
his master's feet.

Flash is the name of the dog, and he
is a fox terrier. How he performed
these remarkable things is best told
by his owner.

"My wife and I came to Chicago
about four months ago from St. Louis,"
he said. "We had been married only a short time when I lost my position
as a drug clerk. I tried for two weeks
to get work at any kind of employment,
but I was unable to find anything to
earn a dollar at. So we decided to pick
up and come to Chicago. Upon our arrival here we got three rooms for $7 a
month and settled down to house-keeping as soon as the furniture arrived.

"It was right after the holidays that
we landed here, and I found the drug
business even slower in Chicago than
it was in St. Louis. There were a few
advertisements in the papers from day
to day for drug clerks, but it was always my luck to be too late. After
the second week I began to answer any
kind of advertisement of help want-
ed. Being a stranger in the city I had
difficulty in looking up places, and I
was slow in getting to addresses be-
cause I did not want to spend any
money for car fare. When I arrived
here I had less than $30, and the little
pile was growing smaller day by day,
and by the end of March our money
was about gone.

"Now I'll tell you about the dog. He
is one that my wife raised from a pup-
py. I wanted to sell him to a friend who would listen to it. She said she
wouldn't come to Chicago unless Flash
came with her. He is a pedigreed fox
and is worth $25 of anybody's money.

"It was election day, the 2d of April
—I will never forget it—that my wife
tied a blue ribbon round the dog's neck
and told me to take him out and sell
him. We were fast broke and she
thought I could get at least $10 for the
dog. She cried a little when I left
home, and it seemed as if the dog knew
what was going on. I brought him
down to Madison and Dearborn streets,
and I wasn't there two hours before I
sold him. He is such a pretty marked
little fellow that everybody who passed
stopped to look at him. I set a
price of $10 on him, because I knew
nobody would pay more than that.
More than fifty persons asked me the
price and when I would tell them they
would walk away, saying, 'he's a nice
dog, but I don't want to pay for it.' I
finally came down to $5, because the
wife was sick and in need of medicine,
and I thought best to get it as soon as
possible. A woman with gold-bowed
spectacles bought him and took him
home. I didn't ask her where she lived,
and I don't know to this day.

"The second day after that the dog
returned home. Where he came from
or how he got back I don't know. My
wife was so glad to see him that she
forgot her sickness for awhile. She
was fondling the dog and talking baby
talk to him when the thought occur-
red to me to take him out and sell him
again. 'Maybe he'll run away from his
next master and come back to us
again,' I said to the wife, and we both
laughed heartily. I took the dog down
next to the afternoon and had no trouble in selling him again for $5. The
next morning before we were up he
was back at the little flat on Center
avenue. He seemed to understand why
he was being sold, and he expressed
his approval of the scheme by laugh-
ing and talking. That may sound
strange to some people who do not understand dogs, but it is a fact that dogs
laugh and talk just the same as human
beings.

"During the month of April I sold the
dog seven times, getting $5 for him
each time. If it hadn't been for him
we certainly would have been com-
pelled to apply to the county agent for
relief. The wife was in need of medical attention, and it is probable she
would have had to go to the poorhouse.
The $35 I got for the dog paid the rent
and all other expenses, besides buying
a pair of shoes for me. I got a position the first of May, and I guess we
will have money sailing from now on.
All the money in the world would not
induce my wife or myself to part with
the dog, who really saved us from the
poorhouse."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

PLAYED HER LAST CARD.

How Her Many Venetians Finally Culmi-
nated on the Car.

One explanation is that she was not
in a good humor when she took the
car. She had seen a big man beating
a little horse and when she had pro-
tested after the manner of an excited
woman he had told her to "Gwa'n an
chase y'rself," and when she got a
policeman he would make no arrest until she had agreed to make a complaint and she had not gone forty feet
before she rued this rash pledge to
appear in the role of a prosecuting witness.

The car started as soon as both her
feet were on the steps and her voice
was sharp when she told the conductor
that every passenger had to make a
run and jump to get aboard. For her
part she wished that electricity had
never been harnessed. People needed
eyes in the backs of their heads these
days.

Owing to her agitated frame of mind
it was not unnatural that she should
hand the conductor a plugged quarter,
says the Detroit Free Press. He was at
first disposed to pocket the coin and
the implied reflection on his ability
to look after the interests of the company, but her curt request for the right
change was her undoing.

"This is no good to me, madam," he
said, quietly; "it is plugged."

Being address as "madam" when she
does not enjoy that felicity may have
tended to break her up still more. At
any rate, she announced that she had

DOG WORKS MIRACLE.

HE SAVES A FAMILY FROM THE
POORHOUSE.

Not Only That, He Also Paid Rent,
Lamp Oil, and the Table, Provided Medicine for a Sick Woman, and Fat
Sheets on His Master's Feet.

This is a story of a dog that saved a
man and his wife from the poorhouse.
The dog paid the rent, bought medicine
for a sick woman, kept the table going
for a month, and even put shoes on
his master's feet.

Flash is the name of the dog, and he
is a fox terrier. How he performed
these remarkable things is best told
by his owner.

"My wife and I came to Chicago
about four months ago from St. Louis,"
he said. "We had been married only a short time when I lost my position
as a drug clerk. I tried for two weeks
to get work at any kind of employment,
but I was unable to find anything to
earn a dollar at. So we decided to pick
up and come to Chicago. Upon our arrival here we got three rooms for $7 a
month and settled down to house-keeping as soon as the furniture arrived.

"It was right after the holidays that
we landed here, and I found the drug
business even slower in Chicago than
it was in St. Louis. There were a few
advertisements in the papers from day
to day for drug clerks, but it was always my luck to be too late. After
the second week I began to answer any
kind of advertisement of help want-
ed. Being a stranger in the city I had
difficulty in looking up places, and I
was slow in getting to addresses be-
cause I did not want to spend any
money for car fare. When I arrived
here I had less than $30, and the little
pile was growing smaller day by day,
and by the end of March our money
was about gone.

"Now I'll tell you about the dog. He
is one that my wife raised from a pup-
py. I wanted to sell him to a friend who would listen to it. She said she
wouldn't come to Chicago unless Flash
came with her. He is a pedigreed fox
and is worth $25 of anybody's money.

"It was election day, the 2d of April
—I will never forget it—that my wife
tied a blue ribbon round the dog's neck
and told me to take him out and sell
him. We were fast broke and she
thought I could get at least $10 for the
dog. She cried a little when I left
home, and it seemed as if the dog knew
what was going on. I brought him
down to Madison and Dearborn streets,
and I wasn't there two hours before I
sold him. He is such a pretty marked
little fellow that everybody who passed
stopped to look at him. I set a
price of $10 on him, because I knew
nobody would pay more than that.
More than fifty persons asked me the
price and when I would tell them they
would walk away, saying, 'he's a nice
dog, but I don't want to pay for it.' I
finally came down to $5, because the
wife was sick and in need of medicine,
and I thought best to get it as soon as
possible. A woman with gold-bowed
spectacles bought him and took him
home. I didn't ask her where she lived,
and I don't know to this day.

"The second day after that the dog
returned home. Where he came from
or how he got back I don't know. My
wife was so glad to see him that she
forgot her sickness for awhile. She
was fondling the dog and talking baby
talk to him when the thought occur-
red to me to take him out and sell him
again. 'Maybe he'll run away from his
next master and come back to us
again,' I said to the wife, and we both
laughed heartily. I took the dog down
next to the afternoon and had no trouble in selling him again for $5. The
next morning before we were up he
was back at the little flat on Center
avenue. He seemed to understand why
he was being sold, and he expressed
his approval of the scheme by laugh-
ing and talking. That may sound
strange to some people who do not understand dogs, but it is a fact that dogs
laugh and talk just the same as human
beings.

"During the month of April I sold the
dog seven times, getting $5 for him
each time. If it hadn't been for him
we certainly would have been com-
pelled to apply to the county agent for
relief. The wife was in need of medical attention, and it is probable she
would have had to go to the poorhouse.
The $35 I got for the dog paid the rent
and all other expenses, besides buying
a pair of shoes for me. I got a position the first of May, and I guess we
will have money sailing from now on.
All the money in the world would not
induce my wife or myself to part with
the dog, who really saved us from the
poorhouse."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

PLAYED HER LAST CARD.

How Her Many Venetians Finally Culmi-
nated on the Car.

One explanation is that she was not
in a good humor when she took the
car. She had seen a big man beating
a little horse and when she had pro-
tested after the manner of an excited
woman he had told her to "Gwa'n an
chase y'rself," and when she got a
policeman he would make no arrest until she had agreed to make a complaint and she had not gone forty feet
before she rued this rash pledge to
appear in the role of a prosecuting witness.

The car started as soon as both her
feet were on the steps and her voice
was sharp when she told the conductor
that every passenger had to make a
run and jump to get aboard. For her
part she wished that electricity had
never been harnessed. People needed
eyes in the backs of their heads these
days.

Owing to her agitated frame of mind
it was not unnatural that she should
hand the conductor a plugged quarter,
says the Detroit Free Press. He was at
first disposed to pocket the coin and
the implied reflection on his ability
to look after the interests of the company, but her curt request for the right
change was her undoing.

"This is no good to me, madam," he
said, quietly; "it is plugged."

Being address as "madam" when she
does not enjoy that felicity may have
tended to break her up still more. At
any rate, she announced that she had

DOG WORKS MIRACLE.

HE SAVES A FAMILY FROM THE
POORHOUSE.

Not Only That, He Also Paid Rent,
Lamp Oil, and the Table, Provided Medicine for a Sick Woman, and Fat
Sheets on His Master's Feet.

This is a story of a dog that saved a
man and his wife from the poorhouse.
The dog paid the rent, bought medicine
for a sick woman, kept the table going
for a month, and even put shoes on
his master's feet.

Flash is the name of the dog, and he
is a fox terrier. How he performed
these remarkable things is best told
by his owner.

"My wife and I came to Chicago
about four months ago from St. Louis,"
he said. "We had been married only a short time when I lost my position
as a drug clerk. I tried for two weeks
to get work at any kind of employment,
but I was unable to find anything to
earn a dollar at. So we decided to pick
up and come to Chicago. Upon our arrival here we got three rooms for $7 a
month and settled down to house-keeping as soon as the furniture arrived.

"It was right after the holidays that
we landed here, and I found the drug
business even slower in Chicago than
it was in St. Louis. There were a few
advertisements in the papers from day
to day for drug clerks, but it was always my luck to be too late. After
the second week I began to answer any
kind of advertisement of help want-
ed. Being a stranger in the city I had
difficulty in looking up places, and I
was slow in getting to addresses be-
cause I did not want to spend any
money for car fare. When I arrived
here I had less than $30, and the little
pile was growing smaller day by day,
and by the end of March our money
was about gone.

"Now I'll tell you about the dog. He
is one that my wife raised from a pup-
py. I wanted to sell him to a friend who would listen to it. She said she
wouldn't come to Chicago unless Flash
came with her. He is a pedigreed fox
and is worth $25 of anybody's money.

"It was election day, the 2d of April
—I will never forget it—that my wife
tied a blue ribbon round the dog's neck
and told me to take him out and sell
him. We were fast broke and she
thought I could get at least $10 for the
dog. She cried a little when I left
home, and it seemed as if the dog knew
what was going on. I brought him
down to Madison and Dearborn streets,
and I wasn't there two hours before I
sold him. He is such a pretty marked
little fellow that everybody who passed
stopped to look at him. I set a
price of $10 on him, because I knew
nobody would pay more than that.
More than fifty persons asked me the
price and when I would tell them they
would walk away, saying, 'he's a nice
dog, but I don't want to pay for it.' I
finally came down to $5, because the
wife was sick and in need of medicine,
and I thought best to get it as soon as
possible. A woman with gold-bowed
spectacles bought him and took him
home. I didn't ask her where she lived,
and I don't know to this day.

"The second day after that the dog
returned home. Where he came from
or how he got back I don't know. My
wife was so glad to see him that she
forgot her sickness for awhile. She
was fondling the dog and talking baby
talk to him when the thought occur-
red to me to take him out and sell him
again. 'Maybe he'll run away from his
next master and come back to us
again,' I said to the wife, and we both
laughed heartily. I took the dog down
next to the afternoon and had no trouble in selling him again for $5. The
next morning before we were up he
was back at the little flat on Center
avenue. He seemed to understand why
he was being sold, and he expressed
his approval of the scheme by laugh-
ing and talking. That may sound
strange to some people who do not understand dogs, but it is a fact that dogs
laugh and talk just the same as human
beings.

"During the month of April I sold the
dog seven times, getting $5 for him
each time. If it hadn't been for him
we certainly would have been com-
pelled to apply to the county agent for
relief. The wife was in need of medical attention, and it is probable she
would have had to go to the poorhouse.
The $35 I got for the dog paid the rent
and all other expenses, besides buying
a pair of shoes for me. I got a position the first of May, and I guess we
will have money sailing from now on.
All the money in the world would not
induce my wife or myself to part with
the dog, who really saved us from the
poorhouse."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

PLAYED HER LAST CARD.

How Her Many Venetians Finally Culmi-
nated on the Car.

One explanation is that she was not
in a good humor when she took the
car. She had seen a big man beating
a little horse and when she had pro-
tested after the manner of an excited
woman he had told her to "Gwa'n an
chase y'rself," and when she got a
policeman he would make no arrest until she had agreed to make a complaint and she had not gone forty feet
before she rued this rash pledge to
appear in the role of a prosecuting witness.