The Modern Way

Instead of placing lens after lens in front of your eyes until you say you "THINK" we have the right ones, we use an instrument known as the Skiascope, look into your eyes and tell you the lenses needed.

Exceptional skill is required in the use of this instrument.

Years of practice have given us the required skill.

Our modern methods eliminate guessing. Don't do any guessing with your eyes for the chances are against you, for there is a thousand chances that a mistake may be made to that a guess will be right.
