THE LOAFER

We all hate the loafer—don't we? The help that only while we are around—when gets at the end of the law, where you don't see him, he chews straws, looks at the sky, thinks about nothing plus nothing. You can't watch him all the time any more than you can watch your dollars all the time. The house-kept dollar is a loafer—an unprofitable servant. Put it to work in an Account at the Bank of Dayton. It works for you, so you won't always have to work. We are a Bank of Personal Service.

—For two things in this world come not back—the wasted minute and the spent penny.
