ENGLISH WOMEN AID IN THE WAR

"Votes Now Forgotten," Says Mrs. Pankhurst.

FIFTY THOUSAND IN PARADE

Government to Accept All Ready For Service—National Register Will Be Taken—Crime For Men to Be Doing Work of Women, Says Suffrage Leader.

London.—Fifty thousand women of England, accompanied by seventy-five brass bands and dressed in red, white and blue, the colors of the union jack and France, paraded from the Thames to Trafalgar square to demonstrate their desire to be enlisted in the services of their country in factories supplying war material. There was a remarkable scene when the minister of munitions, accompanied by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the suffragist leader, appeared on a platform overlooking the embankment along which the procession made its way.

Mrs. Pankhurst placed before Lloyd-George figures to show that 40 per cent of the munition workers in Ger-of all food canned for the German army is turned by women.

"Our fight for votes for women is a forgotten issue in the national crisis," said Mrs. Pankhurst. "We are willing to 'do our bit' for England by taking our place in the factories and releasing men for the trenches. We are willing to do any work the government may assign to us, day or night."

The minister of munitions told the deputation of women that something like 50,000 women already were working at various factories in the production of munitions. It was not a question of competition between male and female labor, he said, but of getting men and women to work together to help the country.

The first thing, continued Mr. Lloyd-George, was to get an adequate supply of machinery and tools, and the government was assuming the control of all machine and tool making establishments in the country. Women who came forward to serve must give their whole time. There must be real national organization for all women who were prepared to take up munition work.

Secondly, added the minister, there must be a sufficient number of women trained to direct and instruct others. In regard to wages, women would be paid the same piece rate as men, and all establishments would be under government control, while the government would see that there was no "sweated" labor.

WARNED BY MORGAN CASE.

Du Ponts Will Sell Explosives Only to Known Persons.

Philadelphia.—As a direct result of the shooting of J. Pierpont Morgan, the Du Pont Powder company of Wilmington, Del., issued orders to all its employees to sell explosives only to customers concerning whose identity they are certain.

The order applies to thousands of clerks, salesmen, managers of branch offices and keepers of magazines throughout the country and marks the first step taken by any of the great ammunition concerns to prevent their products falling into the hands of irresponsible persons.

Kills Snake and a Boy.

Yreka, Cal.—A half dead rattlesnake made a spasmodic attempt to coil when Mrs. Johnson Ahlgren, who had shot it, drew near with a party of children, at Somesbar, Siskiyou county, and everybody ran. In the flight Mrs. Ahlgren's revolver was discharged accidentally and Roy Donahue, eight, was shot through the back and killed.

Discusses Wedding; Dies.

New York.—Two hours after taking a headache powder Miss Reba Becker, eighteen years old, of 1727 Park place, Brooklyn, dropped dead. She was telling relatives at the time of her approaching wedding.

WAR HURTS TRADE IN FARM IMPLEMENTS

Unprecedented Activity Expected After Hostilities Close.

Washington.—Exports of American agricultural implements during the fiscal year 1915 totaled approximately $10,000,000 as against $40,000,000 in the high record year, 1913; $21,000,000 in 1903 and a yearly average of more than $29,000,000 for the last decade. This loss of trade fell most heavily upon sales to Europe, but there were also smaller though insignificant decreases in shipments to Argentina, Canada and various countries of Africa and other sections of the world.

Cuba and Siberia made gains. Australia barely held its own in the year's trade, but this is a good showing in view of the fact that her wheat crop dropped from more than 100,000,000 bushels in 1913 to 25,000,000 bushels last year.

The European war was doubtless the dominant factor in the great falling off in exports of agricultural implements, since the decrease in sales to Europe was disproportionate to that in sales to other sections. Thus exports of agricultural implements to European Russia, usually the greatest of foreign markets for this class of American manufactures, practically ceased, as did also those to Germany, while huge losses likewise occurred in sales to France and other European countries. Another contributory factor was the recent establishment of great plants in Russia and France.

Information reaching the department of commerce, however, indicates a growing use of machinery on farms both in Europe and elsewhere, a tendency which will doubtless be even more pronounced upon the resumption of peace, since the devastation of war is causing a marked shortage in human and animal labor, necessitating proportionately more machinery for the successful conduct of farming. Russia, for example, possesses one-seventh of the entire area of the world and an even larger proportion of the land devoted to cereal crops, which require for their cultivation more machinery than most other classes of farm products. General depression in Canada, Argentina and elsewhere so reduced buying power in 1914-15 that new agricultural machinery has not been purchased in the usual quantities, but with a restoration of normal conditions American manufacturers will doubtless find larger markets than ever before.
