J. O. Dewell and family were on the coast Sunday last, but which coast our informant did not know. However we are going to make a long running guess that it was the Pacific coast. Jim says that he knew that his auto would track alright but did not know that the fenders would scour well. But they did, the mud rolled off them like dirt of the moleboard of a plow. Jim says that driving out here in among the timber would be easy compared to that road he was on while away. They were accompanied on this trip by Dr. O. C. Goodrich and family.
