

Hail the Turkey!

Here's to the Turkey, that bird of gorgeousness and pride, who strutted through the virgin wood when, for a firmer brotherhood, our forbears worked fought and died.

Here's to the Turkey, how often, through the early snow, some sturdy pilgrim sought to slay thee for his feast Thanksgiving day, but fell before the red man's bow.

Here's to the Turkey, proudest, rarest of the living, and, as we bow before our Lord around the yearly festive board, the gem of our Thanksgiving.

—Lewis Allen in Utica Saturday Globe.

WHERE THE BIRDS ARE BRED

Small Farms Are Large Producers of Piece de Resistance of the Thanksgiving Feast.

Although there are many great turkey ranches, and whole communities which live principally upon the raising of turkeys for market, such as Cuero, Tex., whose annual turkey parade preceding Thanksgiving includes thousands of turkeys bound for northern markets, as a rule turkeys are raised in small groups on farms which are interested in other commodities. They are often the sole dependence of the farmer's wife for pocket money throughout the year, and many a farmer's daughter also has been able to make a shining appearance in her world of fashion principally through the successful marketing of the turkey brood.

On the 5,000,000 farms of the United States there were, according to careful statistics taken some years ago, only 6,500,000 turkeys. Texas led among the states, producing 650,000. The other states which were large producers were Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Ohio and Indiana. The state of Rhode Island, noted as it is for its turkeys, produced only 5,000. But the quality of the Rhode Island turkeys always has been excellent and they usually bring prices vastly in excess of those from other parts of the country.

And that ought to be enough about turkeys to get up a pretty good appetite for Thursday's dinner!

REALLY SURFEITED.

Weary—No, t'anks, ma'am. I've got so much turkey dis week dat I gobbles in my sleep.

Great Reason for Gladness.

The day set apart for Thanksgiving for the blessings of the year is a day when the nation is invited to inspect the tapestry of time and to see how steadfastly and how gratifying the old weaver has used the loom for the picture of American contentment and American happiness and American hope. Into the picture enters no public calamity, into it enters no widespread want. Thus the nation has great reason for gladness that it can hang upon the walls of civilization the picture that has been wrought out as the picture of American life from the busy weave of the multitude of individuals who make up that life.

THANKSGIVING

By JAMES W. BECKMAN.
We observe Thanksgiving day in keeping with the time-honored custom of the Pilgrims.

Thanksgiving day was born in the hearts of a grateful little group of people who had survived a harrowing season.

Real thanksgivings are those which come spontaneously in moments of gratitude for deliverance from distress, appreciation of the beauties of life or enjoyment of genuine friendship.

We are thankful that most of our troubles never happened and that those which did passed over like the storms.

The wealth of the world has been filling our coffers to overflowing. Millions of Mammon give thanks like the blatant fatted calf, all unmindful of the fate of the fattened and battered.

We are thankful to have gone through another year with its alternating joys and sorrows and await with hope and fortitude the things the next may bring forth.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine of the Boston Herald.

Ain't It Splendid?

Ain't it splendid to be livin' 'long about this time o' year, Just around before Thanksgivin', with the mornings crisp and clear; With the children's cheeks a-glowin', with the future lookin' bright, And the shops and mills a'goin' like red blazes, day and night?

Ain't it bracin', ain't it cheerin', when the colts kick up their heels, To approach the corn crib, hearin' turkeys gobblin' for their meals? Don't it make a fellow kinda satisfied with life and glad, When it's got so hard to find a thing that's goin' to the bad?

Ain't it fine to feel the nippin' of the brisk breeze at your nose When the old dead leaves go zippin' down the lanes, in scraggly rows, When you've hay to feed the cattle, when you love your fellow men, And you've money you can rattle in your trousers, now and then?

Ain't it fine to wake from dreamin' of the home your boyhood knew And to find the glad sun beamin' just the way it used to do, Long ago, about Thanksgivin', when you'd energy to spare, When your pa and ma were livin', and the days were always fair? —S. E. Kiser.

"Yep, that's Cousin Bill. Bill always was a cheap guy."

Remember Those Who Served.
The great spirits of earth have been men and women who, with thanksgiving in their hearts and on their lips, served faithfully the ages in which they lived. They won the victories and reconstructed the situations through which our blessings have been handed down to us. For their consecrated services let us be truly thankful. Nor in our thanksgiving must we overlook the heroic service rendered by our own boys in the great, recent conflict, and the supreme sacrifice many of them made. They, together with their brave comrades of the nations allied with us in the battle for righteousness, saved democracy for the world.

RUSSIA WOULD RECALL OWN

Soviet Ambassador Promises Transportation of Citizens from U. S.

New York.—Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, self-styled "ambassador of the Russian soviet government to the United States," has offered to provide transportation from the United States to Russia for all Russian citizens who desire to leave America, or whose presence in the United States is undesirable to the federal government.

This offer was made in a letter written by Martens to Secretary of State Lansing and made public Sunday night.

In his letter Martens protested against the "unwarranted and cruel treatment" to which many Russian citizens in the United States are subjected "by the federal and state officials, as well as by mobs acting without authority." He proposes that the soviet government be permitted to return the citizens to soviet Russia and declares that he has received thousands of applications from such citizens who are anxious to return to their homes.

Martens was arrested for contempt Saturday and released on $1000 bail after he had refused to appear and bring certain documents before the Luck legislative committee investigating radical activities in New York. He based his refusal on the ground that all communications passing between himself and his government were privileged. When brought before the committee in the custody of deputy sheriffs Martens promised to appear before the committee Monday and bring his papers with him.

Calling attention to press reports that it is proposed to deport certain Russians to parts of Russia under control of the enemies of the soviet government, Martens in his letter protests that such deportation would mean certain death for those deported and would constitute "a flagrant breach of all principles of international law."

INTERNATIONAL LIVE STOCK SHOW OPENS

Portland.—A big iron key dropped from the clouds Sunday afternoon and, turned in the lock by the hand of Mrs. Helen Ladd Green, grand-daughter of William S. Ladd, Oregon pioneer, who brought the first blooded stock into this state, threw open to the public for unofficial inspection the splendid new quarters of the Pacific International Livestock exposition.

The formal dedication of the new pavilion and the unveiling of memorial plates, erected at the exposition grounds in honor of five of the leading pioneer supporters of the livestock industry in the northwest, took place Monday afternoon.

The memorial program for the unveiling of the tablets erected to honor five pioneer livestock supporters of the northwest were prefaced by addresses by Governor Louis F. Hart of Washington and Governor Olcott of Oregon. The men in whose honor the tablets have been erected, together with the speaker at the unveiling of each, are as follows: Governor Ernest Lister, address by Edwin T. Coman, Spokane; Governor James Withycombe, address by W. K. Newell, Portland; Mike Wisdom, address by N. C. Maris, Portland; Jack Splawn, A. D. Dunn, Wapato, Wash.; William Sargent Ladd, C. H. Carey, Portland.

The hundreds of animals in their stalls when the doors were opened Sunday afternoon presaged success for the 1919 livestock exposition. This year's event will be by far the largest of the kind ever held on the Pacific coast.

Hawaiian Sugar Gone; Price Up.

San Francisco.—Exhaustion of the Hawaiian cane sugar crop has made central and northern California, Oregon, Washington, northern Idaho and Nevada consumers entirely dependent upon the remaining beet sugar crop, the Pacific coast office of the sugar equalization board stated Sunday night in an announcement that a price of 10 cents a pound for beet sugar at the factory would be effective.

The new beet sugar price is an advance of 1 cent over the price at which the refiners sold cane sugar and makes possible a retail figure of 12 cents, as wholesalers are allowed a profit of half a cent a pound, while the retailers may charge 1½ cents additional.

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared." —Mrs. M. GODDEN, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptoms as heat flashes, nervousness, backache, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.
