Easter Week

This is the week of weeks to market any poultry that you expect to market this spring as after this week the price will very likely work lower. Call us up for prices if you have poultry to market.

Raising Chickens

It is our honest opinion that those failing to raise Baby Chicks this year, on account of the high price of feed, will live to regret it later on in the season, as we look for a year of good prices for eggs, poultry and hogs.

Advise is about the cheapest thing there is, so we are making you a present of it, but it might be valuable later on, at that.

Raising Pigs

Better not neglect to raise a few pigs this year. There is a reason.

Miss Caroline Polk Wellman and Miss Carrie Harker of Palo Alto, California and Mrs. Joseph Harver Smith of Portland visited Mrs. J. L. Sherman, Friday; Miss Harker's father lived in Dayton many years ago, and she remembers many of the old residents. Miss Harker has a school for girls, and is visiting the schools of Portland, Seattle and Spokane. The ladies are cousins of Mrs. Sherman.

W. P. Morris was a business visitor in Albany, Saturday and Sunday.

The Pleasant Hour Reading Club held its regular meeting with Mrs. Frank Berry, April 3. Twelve members and one visitor were present. An invitation was extended to our county president of federated clubs to be with us for our next meeting at Mrs. H. G. Coburn's, April 17.

Special Easter music at the M. E. Church, Sunday evening.

All Around Our Neighborhood

There's more than one way to handle these youngsters

IT'S no easy job trying to bring up young daughters these days. Mrs. Burns ought to know—she has three of them. And last summer she worried dreadfully—all the young people going on long auto rides after night. So this spring she rummaged around in the garret and barn and unearthed some old chairs and a table or two and a porch swing they hadn't had up for years. Then she got some Acme Quality Enamel-Kote and copied some painted furniture she had seen in town—the prettiest pale green with decorations in lavender and pink and blue—and made a lot of cretonne cushions. Then she painted some old porch boxes and filled them with ferns from the woods and bought some new records for the phonograph. I wish you could see all the boys flock down there now. It begins to look as if she wouldn't be able to keep the girls at home after all—they say Gertrude is engaged already.

ACME QUALITY ENAMEL-KOTE
